

Court ruling favors schools

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City's use of sales tax revenue for the partial support of its public schools was upheld today by the state Supreme Court.

"We hold that the city of Kansas City has authority to grant city funds to school districts, or portions of school districts, lying within its corporate limits," wrote Judge Robert T. Donnelly in the majority opinion.

The court upheld the use of the revenue for schools on a 4-3 decision, with Judge J. P. Morgan saying in the dissenting opinion that the majority's decision "effectively disenfranchised the patrons and voters in the school district."

City sales taxes need be approved only by a simple majority, whereas boosts in the school tax levy, the primary source of public school funds, require two-thirds majority vote.

The ruling came in a suit filed by Joseph H. Enright, a Kansas City resident, who said the city has no authority to provide portions of its sales tax revenue for the school district. Jackson County Circuit Court Judge James A. Moore ruled that the city did have the authority and Enright appealed.

In upholding the lower court, the Supreme Court said school districts have two primary sources of funds—property taxes and state aid. Kansas City, because of its charter, has the power to levy the sales tax and distribute the funds gained from it.

"A financial crisis existed in the Kansas City School District. In these circumstances, we believe the giving of funds by the city to the school districts served a public or municipal use or purpose," Donnelly wrote.

But in the dissent, Judge Morgan said it was commendable that Kansas City officials were seeking to alleviate a public school crisis.

"When the method used however is contrary to the existing law in Missouri, this court should not place a stamp of approval on it regardless of how worthy the objective. The solution should come from the General Assembly or the patrons of the school district," Morgan wrote.

"Maintenance of public schools by the method in question, in my opinion, is totally inconsistent with that planned by the citizens of this state as now expressed in their constitution," he added. "Financing of public schools is not a proper subject for municipal taxation."

"In effect, the principal opinion approves taxation by the city for financing of public schools but renounces any authority in the city to operate or control the public schools," he concluded.

Butler draws 5 years

NEW MADRID—A Charleston man, Eddie Butler, 25, pleaded guilty in New Madrid County Circuit Court before Judge William L. Ragland Tuesday to a charge of felonious assault with intent to kill.

Butler was sentenced to a five-year term in custody of the Department of Corrections which will run concurrently with a five-year term imposed against him in Scott County.

Butler was charged with felonious assault with a loaded pistol upon Morehouse Marshal Leonard "Slim" Rodgers on Jan. 16. Butler and two companions, Walter Gibson and Jessie Watts of Charleston, also are accused of an armed robbery at Helms Quick Sack No. 1 in Sikeston, which occurred earlier Jan. 16, before they were apprehended in Morehouse following a shootout with police officers.

A motion to vacate sentence and judgment against Michael Wayne Oldham of Hayti was sustained, and a new trial was ordered. Oldham was sentenced Feb. 10, 1975 to concurrent terms of two years for kidnaping and three years for sodomy in a change of venue case from Pemiscot County.

Oldham and a juvenile boy and an adult man were charged with kidnaping a 10-year old Caruthersville boy on Sept. 22, 1974 by forcing him into a van with them. The boy allegedly was taken to a location on the levee between Caruthersville and Hayti where oral sodomy was committed.

Don Fulton re-elected mayor

Don Fulton was re-elected mayor and Steve Sikes was sworn into office as a new member of the Sikeston City Council during a special meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the City Administrative Building.

Fulton's selection, by a 3-1 vote, came as part of the council's annual reorganization following city elections. Sikes was sworn as the only newly elected councilman, taking over the seat relinquished by Arthur B. Ziegenhorn, who did not seek re-election. Sikes won the seat in the April 6 election.

Ziegenhorn stepped down after serving as councilman for 12 years, and was appointed mayor by the council during 1969-70. In recognition of his service to the city, Ziegenhorn received a commemorative plaque presented by Mayor Fulton.

The council also elected Eric Piel as vice mayor for the coming year and voted to retain John Houchin as the council's representative on the City Planning and Zoning Commission.

In other business, the council unanimously approved an amended resolution calling for the paving of First Street from Wakefield Street to Smith Street. The resolution had previously met with approval but had to be redrafted to technically agree with the related ordinance approved at the April 4 council meeting.

A public hearing was set for May 3 to review current applications for liquor licenses. The first of three applications to be considered is for a 5 per cent beer consumption license for the War Drum Restaurant, 2109 E. Malone Ave. The War Drum was approved for a resort liquor license at the council's last meeting.

The second application is for transfer of a 5 per cent beer license from Red's Bar, 109 W. Malone Ave., to T.V.S. Industries. A request for transfer of this license to Jerry Hunter has been withdrawn, according to City Manager Charles Church.

A package license application, filed by Ned Matthews for a shopping center under construction at 343 N. Main St., will be the third to be considered.

Discussion of a $1 per month rate increase requested by See-Mor Cable TV was brought before the council by Sikes, who recommended that the city manager request specific points of information be included in the written proposal to be presented to the council.

Sikes said See-Mor should provide definite figures on the cost of the proposed microwave system which is a condition for the rate hike. A figure of $246,000 has been given, but Sikes contended that the council should be shown definite cost figures in the form of a bid made to See-Mor, if the company has received such a bid.

Sikes also suggested that the cable TV company should tell the council how many people would be using the proposed microwave system, the amount and cost of additional insurance and maintenance required and the number of years necessary for cable TV users to pay off the proposed improvements to the system.

Stating that he could not

reasonably vote on the issue of the rate hike without first receiving this information, Sikes further contended that a survey of perhaps 25 per cent of current cable TV users within the city limits should be conducted to determine the public's willingness to pay the higher rate for the proposed service improvements.

The council supported the concept of the survey on the condition that it be conducted at the expense of See-Mor Cable TV. Church agreed to get the company's reaction to the idea.

The next regular meeting of the council was set for May 3 at the City Administrative Building.

3 injured in accidents

Three persons received minor injuries in two area traffic accidents Tuesday, the highway patrol announced today.

An accident at 4:45 p.m. on Highway 21 in Ironton resulted in minor injuries to Mildred Reed, 57, of Ironton, a passenger in a southbound car driven by Thomas E. Reed, 60, of Ironton.

The accident occurred when the Reed car slowed down and was struck from behind by a car driven by Keith E. West, 18, of Arcadia.

The Reed woman was taken to Arcadia Valley Hospital in Pilot Knob for treatment.

Two children received minor injuries in a two-vehicle second accident at 5:30 p.m. on Highway 49 in Williamsville.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Carl J. Hillis, 18, of Williamsville backed from a private drive into the path of a westbound car driven by Jackie M. Eads, 35, of Williamsville.

Charleston Mayor is Beasley

CHARLESTON — Council members elected to three-year terms on April 6 were sworn into office, the mayor and mayor pro-tem were elected, an ordinance establishing an industrial development committee was adopted and requests and reports were heard Tuesday night by the City Council.

Duane Eastman and Woodrow Graham were administered the oath of office by City Clerk Velma Brown. Wyman Beasley was elected mayor and Terry Rowe was elected mayor pro-tem for one-year terms by the council.

Following the adoption of an ordinance establishing an industrial development committee for the purpose of securing additional industry, Beasley appointed six men to the committee on recommendation of the nominating committee.

Appointments and terms include: Marion Waggoner, six years; Art Wallhausen, five years; Layton Pickard, four years; George Staples, three years; Louie Ervin, two years; and Rowe Councilman, one year.

The mayor and president of the chamber of commerce will be permanent members of the committee and the city manager will be an ex-officio member.

Minutes of the park board meeting, from August 1975 to the present, were presented to the council by Mrs. Marilyn Brown, a park board member who expressed a desire for the city to hire a summer recreation director since Phil McCuiston, who had been a full-time director, has resigned.

The council indicated a summer director would be hired and requested Mrs. Brown to submit a list of proposed recreation activities and duties of the director drawn up by the park board.

A request by City Manager Willis Downs that bids be sought on two new trucks—one a two-ton with hydraulic hoist and flat bed and the other a four-cylinder compact pickup truck—for the sewer plant was approved. Bids will be submitted for council approval at the May meeting.

Downs also presented the council his proposed budget for 1976-77. A meeting was scheduled for April 27 to review the budget, which is to be presented for adoption at the May meeting.

A request by Police Chief Bob Ritchey that he be permitted to attend a police chiefs conference May 10-12 in Moberly was also approved.

Mayor appointments to committees and boards included: Eastman, Rowe and Graham, liquor committee; Rowe, Graham and Beasley, finance committee; Beasley and Councilman Lowell Nicholas, planning and zoning commission; Rowe, regional planning commission; and William Purnell was reappointed to the urban renewal and housing authority board for four years.

Hearst escorted

Patty Hearst is escorted to an elevator by Janey Jimenez, a deputy U.S. Marshal, in the basement of San Francisco's Federal Building Monday, prior to being rushed to a hospital after her right lung suddenly collapsed Tuesday evening. She underwent surgery a short while later and was reported resting comfortably today.

Patty hospitalized; has collapsed lung

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Patricia Hearst, rushed to a hospital in pain after her right lung suddenly collapsed, was reported resting comfortably today — the day she was to have had a dreaded courtroom reunion with two underground companions.

The 22-year-old convicted bank robber was taken to Sequoia Hospital Tuesday evening gasping for air after her lung collapsed without warning in the San Mateo County Jail. She underwent surgery less than two hours later.

Undersheriff Harold Barker said Miss Hearst was in stable condition and that the prognosis is good. A doctor who examined her said she probably would remain hospitalized for four to five days.

"She was in considerable pain," said Dr. Jeffrey Wiseberg, the physician who performed the 45-minute procedure to reduce pressure in Miss Hearst's chest. "But she was very level-headed and handled it quite well. There is no question that this was an acute emergency requiring immediate care."

Security was tight around the hospital, about 25 miles south of San Francisco. Sheriff's deputies were stationed at the emergency entrance and elsewhere in the facility. Miss Hearst was in a private room in a section of the three-story hospital where maternity and surgery patients are usually kept, said Arthur J. Faro, the associate hospital administrator.

It was the first night in the nearly seven months since her capture that Miss Hearst had not slept in a cell at the jail. She was to have been flown to Los Angeles early today for a pretrial hearing on state kidnaping, assault and robbery charges.

It was at that hearing Miss Hearst was to have encountered William and Emily Harris, the Symbionese Liberation Army members she reportedly implicated in a Sacramento bank robbery during a meeting Monday with FBI agents. She was "fearful and apprehensive" about the meeting, one of her lawyers said.

But attorney Albert Johnson said Miss Hearst's emotional condition had nothing to do with the lung collapse.

He said the heiress' lung collapsed shortly after 5 p.m., about five minutes after he ended a visit with her.

"It was a very serious thing," Johnson said. "If you don't get it in time, people often die. They got this in time."

Dr. Donald Rowles said he examined Miss Hearst after a tube was inserted into her chest cavity in an effort to draw out air, creating a vacuum necessary to reinflate the collapsed lung. By that time she was in only minor pain.

Heckemeyer seeks circuit judge seat

Tony Heckemeyer announces his candidacy for judge of the 33rd Judicial Circuit, comprised of Scott and Mississippi counties, in the Aug. 3 Democratic primary election.

Heckemeyer is married to the former Betty Littleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Littleton, 603 Taylor St. They have four children, Joseph, 10, Matthew, 9, Bess, 5, and Andrew, 2, and live at 526 Vernon St. They are members of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Sikeston.

Heckemeyer is a farmer, businessman and practicing attorney. He received his education in the Sikeston school system, then attended the University of Missouri-Columbia, where he majored in agriculture and received a bachelor of science degree. He attended the University of Missouri School of Law and received the degree of doctor of jurisprudence.

He served four terms in the General Assembly of Missouri where he distinguished himself, being one of the youngest men to be elected to the Missouri House of Representatives. He was elected the Democratic Party "Whip" in the House before his 30th birthday and also served as vice chairman of the Agriculture Committee, chairman of the Miscellaneous Resolutions Committee and as a member of the Appropriations Committee, Fiscal Affairs

Tony Heckemeyer

Committee and Economics Committee, among others.

The combination of these committees made his vote count heavily on any expenditure made by the State of Missouri. His votes on these committees reflect that he is a fiscal conservative.

He was chosen outstanding legislator in the field of conservation by the Sears Foundation and the Missouri Wildlife Federation in 1969.

He sponsored and floor-managed many important pieces of legislation during his eight years as a representative.

School board adopts budget

The Sikeston R-6 Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday to accept a proposed budget of $5,711,000 for the 1976-77 school year. This is a 6 per cent increase over last year's budget.

The board also gave unanimous approval to a salary schedule recommendation that will increase salaries in the school system by a total of $200,000 for the coming school year. The salary schedule ranges from a base salary of $8,550 to $13,235.

In other action, Nora Springs was sworn in as the first woman member of the Sikeston school board. Mrs. Springs won the seat in the April 6 election.

The board accepted the school calendar for the coming year, which includes a two-week

Dexter making minor changes in courses

DEXTER — Some changes to be brought about by laws prohibiting sex discrimination in the schools will be minor, the Board of Education learned Tuesday night in a report delivered by Gene McCane, principal at the high school.

One of these changes involves a course now called Bachelor Living, offered to high school boys for the past several years.

Starting with the 1976-77 school year, the course name will be changed to Contemporary Living and will be offered to girls as well as boys.

Other courses and activities will also eventually have to be offered to both girls and boys, but the board has several years to implement the changes.

The board decided Tuesday night to auction off three trailers on April 24. The trailers had been used for classrooms, but are no longer needed, since an addition to the high school has been completed.

Students moved into the new addition last week.

The board also decided to give teachers an average $400 - per-year across-the-board salary increase.

CLARITY NEEDED ON CUBA WARNINGS

We don't know just how serious President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger may be in their repeated warnings to Russia and Cuba to "cool it" in Africa. But one thing is certain: If the threats cannot be made to appear credible, they will fail in their deterrent effect. And so far, Congress is not exactly supporting the Administration's diplomacy.

Take the statement of House Democratic Leader Thomas P. ("Tip") O'Neill as an example. "This Congress refused to allow the President and his Secretary of State to continue the war in Indo-China or to get involved in a new secret adventure in Angola," O'Neill said. "It does not intend to allow Mr. Ford to push the American people into an adventure against Cuba." Such a declaration can hardly fail to dilute the effect of the Ford-Kissinger warnings on Moscow and Havana.

Therefore, while there are often advantages in not spelling out your intentions in exact detail to an opponent, in this case the greater danger may well lie in continued ambiguity.

We should keep in mind that great damage has already been done. The Soviets and Cubans were allowed to make their initial military move in Angola and to get away with it. The camel's nose is now well inside the tent, and he shows no signs of leaving the premises. He is no doubt assessing the climate to see if it is safe to make his next move.

There is a strong suspicion in some quarters that Ford and Kissinger are merely going through an exercise in rhetoric, hoping thereby to turn aside criticism from Reagan and others that they have been too soft on communism.

We hope that is not the case. But if not, and if real action is intended by this country, then the nature of that action and the reasons for it should be spelled out clearly. The public, we believe, understands that the communist powers cannot be given a blank check to do as they please in Africa or anywhere else. But this support must be demonstrated by full discussion and debate now, before the next crisis is upon us.

WE NEED A TAXPAYER
PRICE INDEX

Most Americans never see the U.S. Budget for 1977 which is 385 pages and includes many charts, tables and other statistical analysis. And most of us wouldn't understand it, if we did see this bulky document.

But we understand that there aren't any tables or charts that tell how much government is costing the average family or how much that figure goes up from one year to the next.

Perhaps what we need is an official indicator to keep us posted on the high cost of government spending and to relate it to the average family.

If we had such an official indicator, we might become as concerned about the high cost of government as we do about the high cost of living. We could call it the Taxpayer Price Index (TPI).

It's no big deal to produce such statistics. For example, the U.S. Chamber prepared a table which shows that President Ford's proposed budget is going to cost the average family $5,328 in federal taxes, compared with $2,672 in 1967. This cost-per-family figure has risen 99 per cent in the last decade, much faster than the cost of living.

The Chamber also underscores another important point. That is, despite popular belief, food, housing and automobiles are not the biggest items in the family budget.

"Actually, the government costs the average family more than food, housing and automobiles combined," reports the Chamber. "This year, as it has every year since 1965, the Federal budget will once again increase as the Federal Government pushes up record expenditures."

"The most significant increase in the last decade was in income security, which more than tripled and now costs the average household $1,853."

The table below reveals that income security, which includes social security, health and welfare programs, has risen 256 per cent in the last 10 years.

Here is an abbreviated version of the Chamber table. The column on the right tells you how much TPI has risen in 10 years.

	Expenditure per household	Percent change

The Supreme Court recessed last week without ruling on one of the crucial cases now under deliberation -- the constitutionality of the Election Reform Act. The Court's decision to put off the ruling until after January 12 means that the Treasury will probably begin handing out matching federal funds to presidential candidates. But not if former Sen. Eugene McCarthy has his way. McCarthy, who along with Sen. James Buckley, Human Events and the American Conservative Union is challenging the act, said he will seek a temporary restraining order to prevent the Treasury from distributing funds. McCarthy said there would be no way to recover the money if the court subsequently rules the act unconstitutional.

QUOTAS FOR POLLUTION?

If Noranda Aluminum Co. were located in St. Louis, where the air is dirty, it would be required to install pollution control equipment so as to reduce to the fullest extent practical the emission of 1100 pounds of aluminum and fluoride particles every hour. But the plant is in New Madrid, where the air is clean, so it is being allowed to pump as much airborne garbage as it likes. This curious state of affairs is possible in the world of regulators because Noranda is the only polluter in town.

You see, the air around New Madrid is so pure that even Noranda's substantial emissions do not degrade the over-all air quality, as determined by federal and state regulations. In St. Louis, though, they would, and the company would have to stop.

Now, let us assume that a steel mill, a refinery and a smelter moved into the New Madrid area. Which one of them would be responsible for pushing the dirt in the air above the allowable limits? Noranda, having been there first, perhaps could claim squatter's rights to, say, 35 per cent of the dirt level. The second polluter could stake out a certain percentage of the air as its own, too, and so on. Eventually, though, one of them, say a widget works that was contributing to 2 per cent of the pollution, would pump out just enough dirt to push the level over permissible limits. At that point the state would demand action. But of whom? The widget works with its 2 per cent contribution or Noranda with its 35 per cent?

Under the Catch 22 reasoning used by the Missouri Air Conservation Commission in approving Noranda's continued pollution of the air over New Madrid, it would be the last polluter who would have to buy control equipment. If breathers think the Noranda case is the rare exception, we remind them that Union Electric Co. has successfully used the same argument for pumping sulfur oxides into the air over St. Louis for years—and has gotten away with it.

Until the Air Conservation Commission requires every polluter to install the best available control equipment on the market, with the objective of either improving or retaining air quality, depending on conditions the air over this state will get dirtier.

THE TIGHTENING NOOSE AROUND THE UNITED STATES

According to Intelligence Digest, the Communist advance in Africa, of which Angola is but the first big stride, is part of a carefully conceived plan to exploit the atmosphere of detente by isolating the United States and Europe from the vital sources of raw materials. This plan also entails placing the Soviet navy on or near the main supply routes, and after the Soviet-Cuban success in Angola other areas will be attacked.

particularly the Panama Canal.

The removal of Africa from the European western sphere of influence to the Soviet sphere is also calculated to have a great potential for the ideological exploitation of the American negro's romantic cultural identification with Africa.

In Intelligence Digest for February 1976 this report was carried: "The West's blinkered approach to what is happening in Angola is daily becoming more puzzling. Western intelligence agencies have in the last two months uncovered enough information to establish beyond doubt that this is not merely a case of the Soviet Union recklessly or rashly going all-out in support of a favored African Marxist movement bent on conquest. Nor is it merely a latter-day war of colonial conquest...."

"What has been established is that the divisions in Angola, tribal in origin as they are, have been seized-upon by the Russians to commence the military campaign, which has been in preparation for years, for the eventual conquest of all southern Africa and the resultant mastery of the African continent south of the Sahara as well as the strategically vital ocean routes through the Southern hemisphere. Angola is not just a regrettable incident in breach of some imaginary detente."

"It is the Soviet Union's most ambitious military undertaking since the end of the Second World War, in which success will be consolidated step by step until final victory over Western possessions and interests in this part of the world has been achieved."

"Enough is now known of the planning within the Soviet Defense Ministry to indicate that the Russians' own assessment is that if they are not stopped in Angola it will be too late for them to be stopped anywhere before they reach and take Simonstown at the southern extremes of Africa. This is known in the Pentagon, as it is known to the intelligence committee of NATO, both of which are to be exonerated from blame for the West's inactivities. The guilt lies fully with the so-called political leaders."

And people like Senator Humphrey and other experts in the Senate on foreign affairs cannot see that America has any interest in Angola—or perhaps Africa.

The free people in the World cannot afford to be misled by a bickering Congress and Administration on foreign policy in the U.S.

BELLS TO TOLL
NATIONWIDE FOR 200TH ANNIVERSARY

A simultaneous, nationwide ringing of bells on July 4 will herald the country's entrance into its third century.

Communities, churches, schools, fire departments, universities and individuals will toll bells and carillons in conjunction with the ringing of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia at 1 p.m. (Atchison time).

The time selected is exactly 200 years from the precise moment that the Liberty Bell proclaimed the independence of the new nation.

John W. Warner, administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA), announced the nationwide bell ringing program after contheless, calls upon Beech Aircraft and Atlanta Gas Light to provide him with air taxi service.

Beech does millions in defense business, which is funded by Flynt's subcommittee. The company was happy, therefore, to fly him in a sleek Beechcraft turbojet to St. Simon's island off the coast of Georgia for golfing and to the fabled Masters course in Augusta, Ga.

Once Flynt needed to return to Washington to chair an Ethics Committee meeting. One of the subjects discussed was unethical corporate courting of Congressmen. Yet believe it or not, Flynt wangled a free ride to the meeting in a corporate plane belonging to Atlanta Gas Light.

His corporate friends don't have jets with enough range to fly to Africa, where his daughter and her husband are stationed. So Flynt billed the taxpayers instead for a junket to Africa. There are those who might say this, too, is unethical.

On other occasions, Flynt has turned up at the secluded Wye Island, Md., lodge of another defense contractor, Rockwell International, to shoot geese.

The members of the House Ethics Committee would do well to remember that an informed public can bring about a change in the ethical standards of Congress by mandating a change in its membership.

Footnote: Flynt talked to us fully about his activities. He did not "leak" the Army information, he said, but merely confirmed what the reporters had already learned. Our sources insist this is not true.

After Carter leaked information from the GAO report, Flynt told us: "I just thought I'd let it all hang out." He confirmed his rides on corporate aircraft but said he saw no conflict. Nor did he see anything wrong with his Ford Motor Company relationship. He got less rental, he said, than Ford had planned to pay for other land.

sultations with community, state and regional Bicentennial officials at a special Bicentennial Weekend planning meeting held in Denver.

"There is a great interest across the land in a symbolic national effort to commemorate our 200th anniversary and many communities have already begun planning bell-ringing ceremonies as part of their Bicentennial activities," he said.

"Now, we are asking all Americans to join together on this historic occasion, and let the sound of every bell in the country ring out to declare our freedom and signify our unity."

He added that he hopes that Americans living and working abroad will join in the salute.

The bell-ringing will go on for two minutes in commemoration of the nation's first two centuries. Radio and television stations are being asked to broadcast the sound of bells during the period.

The nationwide effort is encouraged and supported by a Senate Concurrent Resolution of the United States Congress.

The Liberty Bell will be rung (amplified electronically because of the crack) in a symbolic national ceremony conducted by the Sons of the American Revolution at Independence National Park at precisely 1 p.m. Atchison time, 2 p.m. (EDT), Philadelphia time.

So here's hoping that along with the popping of fireworks that every block in Atchison will resound with ringing bells for that two-minute period as we celebrate America's great heritage of 200 years of freedom.

A DARK ALTERNATIVE

The energy shortage has hastened the introduction of nuclear power. It also has stimulated controversy over the safety of nuclear power plants. According to The Wall Street Journal, "A handful of states are considering legislation to outlaw construction of nuclear power plants and one Congressman recently called for a ban on them for up to five years."

The oil shortage and a widespread gasoline famine resolved the Alaska Pipeline dispute in short order. The question now is, will it be necessary to endure an electric power famine before the wrangling over nuclear power plants can be terminated? As far as safety goes, objections to such plants have been carried to an irrational extreme. "The overwhelming consensus of the scientific community," The Wall Street Journal points out, "is that nuclear plants are safe by any relative measurement. But critics have chosen to frame their objections in absolute terms, claiming that any risk at all is intolerable. It is an effective emotional argument, since no one can know the value of a human life. But if those same absolutist standards had been applied to the development of electricity or transportation, mankind literally would still be walking around groping in the darkness."

Development of nuclear technology involves high cost and many problems. Unreasonable fear of the unknown should not be added to those problems. And, as The Wall Street Journal concludes, a moratorium on nuclear power plants, "...would simply retard the rate of future technological progress." Those who are concerned with 100 percent safety should consider the dangers of "...walking around groping in the darkness."

A fisherman was lugging a large fish when he met another fisherman with half a dozen small ones on a string.

"Howdy," said the first fisherman, dropping the huge fish and waiting for a comment.

The fellow with the string of small ones stared and stared. Then he said calmly, "Just caught the one, eh?"

By Victor Riesel

Permissive Stealing:

Authorities finally admit that $2 billion annually is ripped off vast welfare network

WASHINGTON—Well, the top executives in the welfare industry now slowly and with the lowest visibility and vocality possible are beginning to admit that relief ripoffs "and waste" currently are costing our nation well over $2 billion annually.

It took considerable electric prod journalism to get these annoyed bureaucrats to move on city, state and federal fronts, though in the past few weeks word came that the General Accounting Office knows of at least a billion dollars worth of "waste" in the welfare system.

And Health, Education and Welfare Department Secretary David Mathews said almost apologetically to the fraud experts that he was launching a probe to end the $750 million yearly medicaid ripoff by vendors. Meaning crooked druggists, laboratories and doctors, some of whom have taken in anywhere from $200,000 to $500,000 in one year.

And recent federal audits, if updated and projected, indicate that some $400 million a year are being "erroneously" paid out through the Supplemental Security Income Program. This SSI was created to aid the penniless elderly and the handicapped. But obviously their tragedies aren't eased by the national 54 per cent SSI error rate. More than half the moneys which should go to these desperate folk are being stolen by welfare racketeers.

And if you poke at governmental social service agencies -- and some of us have, including the startled, horrified, frustrated and now determined New York State Welfare Inspector General Richard Horan -- one finds an unbelievable lassitude and permissiveness.

So help me, I taped an interview with one social service administrator, who annually dispensed almost $4 billion in welfare, medicaid, etc., during which he said that it really wasn't wrong for the "clients" to steal. Society owes them those extra dollars.

So lax was his department that in shifting offices in New York City, the case workers lost $3 million -- by losing the documents which proved that much worth of thievery in fraudulent emergency and (multiple) lost check claims.

No one paid much heed. What's $3 million? You wouldn't think, would you, that the big city soon may default on its bonds and continue cutting thousands of policemen, firefighters and sanitation men from the municipal payroll for lack of cash?

But one state official did decide to get tough. Dr. Blanche Bernstein, N.Y. State Deputy Commissioner, Income Maintenance, ordered the dispatching of bilingual questionnaires to 300,000 welfare cases. Quality control of eligibility was the objective. Result: a $25 million-a-year saving. Some 6,700 cases were closed when the recipients didn't return the questionnaire.

And another 4,266 cases were slashed because the welfare clients couldn't be located or because the recipients suddenly discovered they didn't need relief money after all. That's for starters.

And there's the effort of Massachusetts to computerize the matching of six million personal records annually. Point is to see how many welfare clients are ineligible because they're employed or have other income on which taxes are paid.

No sooner was this announced recently in Boston than a James Wexler, speaking for a Boston legal aid group, denounced the project. He threatened a court challenge on the grounds of invasion of the welfare clients' privacy rights.

First, let it be reported that the phrase "welfare client" is euphonic Aesopian language invented by the truly elite social work studies of professordom at Columbia University.

Recipients of welfare aren't clients. They are neighbors being helped, children being fed and clothed and unemployed fathers (when they can be found) being assisted during grim income-less moments. The funds come from taxpayers who have no personal privacy.

Every dollar taxpayers earn, every check they issue, every transaction they make, every share of stock or bond they buy and sell, every inch of their private homes are open to a dozen city, state and federal agencies.

Why should the taxpayers' privacy be any less privileged than that of their less fortunate neighbors whom we all support?

Why all this sensitivity over the issue of quality control of eligibility -- which in the SSI program in Delaware, for example, had an 89 per cent error rate?

Why, for example, was the head of the New York City Human Resources Administration told "not to rock the boat"? Not to anger racial and religious groups which might create "trouble"? You can take for granted that's what was said.

Why has the HEW's "new" Office of Investigation not been fully staffed? The funds are there. Until a year ago it had 10 investigators, seven in the field and three in the home office. Now it has some 35 investigators -- for a department so vast it has 129,420 full-time permanent employees housed in 5,290 buildings -- all responsible for our vast educational, health and welfare subsidies running into the scores of billions. HEW's budget is $18.4 billion.

Why should the bureaucracy and the welfare defrauders always win and the public constantly lose?

We're talking a out a substantial part of our national budget. There simply must be a better way to help the poor.

Senate committee hears reasons to revise voting laws

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A massive revision of the state's election laws could result in taxpayer savings from fewer elections and more flexible voter registration procedures, a Senate committee was told Tuesday night.

Proponents of the 500-page bill revising the election laws testified before the Senate Elections Committee that the measure would make election laws more uniform throughout the state and easier to understand.

In other committee action, the Senate Public Health, Welfare and Environment Committee heard testimony on a bill to shorten the length of time necessary before adoption proceedings can begin for an abandoned child. The committee also heard testimony favoring a House approved series of bills relating to medical malpractice problems.

A bill which would exempt last year's federal income tax rebate from Missouri state income tax narrowly failed to gain approval in the Senate Budget Control Committee. The measure, which would have allowed taxpayers to deduct their rebate from their federal adjusted gross income next year, would have cost the state an estimated $5 million in revenue.

The election law revision was supported by a statement from Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick which was read to the committee by an office representative.

"Every year the bill is delayed hundreds of thousands of tax dollars will be wasted," Kirkpatrick's statement said.

The bill provides that only one election a month may be held, and always on a Tuesday. Included in the bill are proposals to allow voter registration by mail if a person cannot register in person as well as providing more lenient means to obtain an absentee ballot through a designated representative.

David Buie of the Associated Students at the University of Missouri supported the registration changes, saying it would enable more of the 41 per cent of the student body registered outside of Boone County to obtain ballots and registration easily. The organization also supports the proposal to allow voter registration to transfer from one county to another without re-registration.

A major change in the bill would allow consolidation of local election authority into the hands of 111 county clerks and five election boards. There are currently 3,000 election officials in the state.

An open primary proposal was not included in the bill to avoid controversial issues, said Charles Blackmar, a St. Louis University law professor who helped write the bill.

The committee heard testimony from proponents of the measure only. A later committee meeting will be held for opponents to testify. The measure has already been approved by the House.

Redefining termination of parental rights was the object of a bill before the Senate Public Health and Welfare Committee. The bill provides that if a child under one year of age is abandoned by the biological parents for 90 days, adoption proceedings may begin. Current law provides that a child must be abandoned at least a year before parental rights are lost.

Udge Noah Weinstein, a retired St. Louis County juvenile court judge, supported the measure saying it would help eliminate charges that abandoned children are left in limbo too long. He said the current law allows children to remain in foster homes so long it becomes a "wrenching experience" to remove the child.

A series of medical malpractice bills were also presented to the committee. One measure, introduced by Rep. Phil Snowden, D-Gladstone, would eliminate the dollar amount sought in damage suits to reduce the sensationalism connected with malpractice suits. Snowden said the inflated figures publicized by the news media can ruin a doctor's reputation even before the case is settled.

But Sen. Ray Howard, D-St. Louis, objected to the bill claiming it created a special class of citizenship for doctors to receive more protection than any other profession.

"We are trying to protect doctors, but just how much do they want?" Howard asked. He referred to the fact that the Senate already has approved three other malpractice bills designed to reduce unnecessary claims.

The House package of bills includes a measure to insure doctors of the availability of insurance at reasonable prices as well as a measure to insure that victims collect from one insurance policy only and not several for one incident.

Doubt cast on fate of money bills

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee expressed doubt and disappointment over the fate of the remaining appropriations bills in the legislature.

He expressed wonder if the measure funding the state's capital improvements projects could be passed before the end of the legislative session.

Monticello Democrat Norman Merrell, chairman of the money committee, said at a Tuesday night hearing the capital improvements bill which has been stalled in the House, might not have time to get ample scrutiny before the constitutional cutoff date of April 22 for appropriations measures.

"I don't think it's fair to vote on $50 million of capital improvements in 15 minutes," Merrell said of the building improvements measure.

The measure is slated for a House hearing today, but the legislative leaders set today for the last working day of the week. They plan to take a week for Easter recess.

Even after the House committee approves the measure, it still must face final House approval and then must go through the identical process in the Senate.

One major objection Merrell and other senators have to the House bill in its current shape deals with the proposed funding of new buildings.

The House measure provides money only for portions of new state buildings, basing the future of the building on subsequent appropriations from the legislature.

"If you go pouring cement foundations all over the state without providing funds for thereafters, you're going to have a mess," Merrell said. "I don't know of any contractor who would accept a proposal like that."

Merrell also expressed disappointment the House failed to act on the eight funding compromise measures agreed to in a joint House-Senate negotiation last week.

Both Merrell and House Appropriations Chairman James "Jay" Russell, D-St. Louis, agreed last week to take up the bills as soon as possible at the beginning of this week. No funding bills have been discussed on the House floor to date.

The possibility of suspending legislative rules and the suggestion a special session might have to be called to extend the time in which debate could be heard on the money bills were brought up as possible alternatives Tuesday night.

No definitive action was taken by the Senate committee.

Merrell also took the opportunity to suggest the committee delay action on the pending emergency and supplemental money bill until Gov. Christopher S. Bond releases the 3 per cent of current state agency budgets. Merrell said he could not see how the legislature could appropriate emergency funds for the agencies when Bond continues to hold back already appropriated money. GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Ann Landers

Father divorces himself from daughter

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a mother asking if you had seen her son. It seems he hasn't paid much attention to her since he married. She misses him. I have a similar problem. It goes like this.

Dear Ann Landers: Have you seen my father? He is the man who used to cuddle me in his arms, help me with my homework, buy me little gifts on my birthday and take me places. Then he and Mom were divorced and he married another woman. I haven't seen him in five years.

I've grown from a gawky adolescent into a young lady. I often wonder what my dad looks like. I also wonder how he can stay away from me so long when he used to love me so much.

I realize he has a new life now and I wouldn't dream of interfering, but I really do miss him, Ann. Please print this letter. Even if my dad doesn't see it, maybe someone who is in a similar situation might think it was written by his daughter and give her a call. In any event, I don't see how I can lose. — A Daughter

Dear Daughter: Here's your letter. I hope and pray your dad DOES see it and reestablishes communication. Please let me know if it happens, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: I have read your column for years and find it very informative and mostly accurate. I have a question I hope you will answer. I can't ask anyone here, even a clergyman, because we live in a rather small town.

If two girls in their 20s share an apartment AND sleep together in a double bed, does this mean they are involved in a lesbian relationship?

Please be sure of your answer, Ann. It is very important. I can't sign my name or address, but believe me, I am not putting you on. This letter is strictly for real. — Need To Hear From You

Dear Friend: The Answer is NO. Many members of the same sex sleep in one bed and the relationship is purely platonic. The same can be said for members of the opposite sex. And would you believe that some of them are actually married — to each other!

Dear Ann Landers: Our 21-year-old daughter has been seeing a great deal of a 26-year-old fellow who is ill-mannered and unpleasant. I found evidence that they have been having sexual relations. When I told her I knew she became furious and shouted, "We're g-going to get married next year. Get off my back."

Our daughter was a music major, is rather pretty and was a good student. Unfortunately, she has a congenital hip problem and limps a bit. It is apparent, of course, but in no way is it grotesque.

This small deformity has made her feel fortunate to have any kind of a boyfriend. She seems to gravitate toward young men who are inferior to her in every way.

I've tried to talk to her about this but she becomes hostile and tells me to mind my own business. What can I do? — Heartsick Mother

Dear Mother: Nothing. So stop irritating the girl. What she needs is professional help. Your daughter's concept of her personal worth must be upgraded. I hope she moves in that direction at once. Too bad you didn't write to me several years ago.

Are you, or is someone you care about messing around with drugs — or considering it? Are all drugs bad? What about pot — in moderation? Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs," separates the facts from the fiction. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

New York couple has doll house wedding

NEW YORK (AP) — The bride marched down the aisle to "Babes in Toyland." The wedding took place in a red-shingled doll house and the newlyweds drove off in a carriage to live happily ever after.

So went the fairy-tale wedding Monday night of game designer Allan Turoff and toy designer Caroline Pool in the doll house boutique at the F.A.O. Schwarz toy store on Fifth Avenue.

The reason for the unusual setting was that five years ago on Christmas Eve the two designers were strolling in Manhattan when they spotted a fire in the toy store. Their quick call for help prevented serious damage.

So when Turoff decided to make Caroline his storybook bride, he asked the store if they could use the doll house. Grateful publicity people quickly said yes.

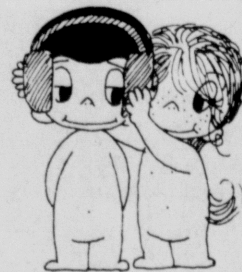

Turoff was surrounded by Raggedy Ann, Pooh, Paddington Bear and Snoopy as the bride marched up for the double-ring ceremony performed by State Supreme Court Justice Morris E. Spector.

Serving as best men were Turoff's three sons by a previous marriage. They wore black tuxedos and red, white and blue sneakers and ran around trying the toys after the ceremony.

"I couldn't think of a better place for anything," said 13-year-old Michael, peering from beneath a crash helmet as he admired a sporty purple dune buggy.

After the champagne, strawberries and chocolate wedding cake with white icing, the couple drove off in a carriage bearing a sign: "Just married ... and they lived happily ever after."

Love is ...

...wanting him to only have eyes for you.

Guns, ammo, food stolen from trailer

BENTON — Two guns, ammunition and food items were reported stolen from a trailer, located north of town and owned by Cletus Scherer, which was broken into apparently over the weekend — the Scott County Sheriff's Department announced today.
 Missing are a .25 caliber automatic pistol, a 12-gauge shotgun, three boxes of ammunition and numerous food items.

Port study may be delayed unless budget changes

MORLEY — Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority finally has received Army Corps of Engineers approval of a port study, but unless there are federal budgetary changes funds would not be available until October 1977, the port commission learned there Monday.

Emmett Hahn, engineer in the corps' St. Louis District, said a reconnaissance study under Section 107 of the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1969 has been approved, making the study of a port to serve Cape and Scott counties ready for detailed analysis.

The detailed study is one of four steps under which ports are constructed with a maximum of $1 million in federal funds. The other stages are the initial reconnaissance study, preparation of plans and specifications as the third step and actual construction as the final stage.

The commission has decided to strive for construction of a small on-channel port initially and late a more sophisticated slack water port. It was reported that there has been a great amount of interest by industry in locating a port on the Mississippi River with expediency.

The commission also learned from Allen Clark of the State Division of Community Development that state money is available for a feasibility study for the long-range slack water harbor. The board passed a resolution authorizing Commission Chairman C. W. Rushing of Cape Girardeau to make application for funds to the Ozark Regional Commission.

Commission Secretary A. J. Seier said the board is "encouraged by the news from the corps and interest expressed by industries reaffirms our hope in forming a port."

Kiwanis views X-ray films

Thomas Blount, a representative of the E. I. DuPont Co., manufacturer of X-ray films, was the featured speaker at the Kiwanis Club meeting Tuesday night at the El Capri Restaurant.

Blount was assisted in his presentation by Tom Lambert, supervisor of x-rays at the Ferguson Clinic. They showed a film titled "Light in Shadow," which gave the history of x-rays. The audience also viewed several x-ray films of the body.

Visiting from the Libbourn Kiwanis Club were Ed Beavers, L. D. Fish, O. J. Taul, Dick Twitty and Gene Haley.

President Lambert announced that dedication of the Memorial Park for George W. Kirk is planned for May 14.

The Founding Faith

Restrictions give in to religious freedom

Editor's Note: This second installment of a five-part Easter series on the bicentennial theme of "The Founding Faith" deals with early religious restrictions in this country and the loosening of the shackles.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Jailers harassed the Baptist minister, John Leland, confined for five months in Culpepper County, Va. They put rowdy drunks in with him, set off a gunpowder explosion beside him one night, polluted his food, burned pepper and brimstone and blew the smoke into his cell. He put his mouth to cracks in the rock wall to avoid suffocation.

His crime: "Disturbing the peace" by preaching the gospel without authority from the state Church of England in the Colony of Virginia in 1770, not long before the American Revolution in 1776.

He was among many Baptists, Quakers and Presbyterians jailed in colonial America for preaching, often in outdoor meetings or private homes. "A vagabond, a heretic, a schismatic and a mover of sedition," authorities called another preacher, Samuel Harris, and seized him.

Some of the victims kept preaching through barred jail windows to people outside. But sheriff's men hacked with swords at arms of the preachers extended through jail windows, or broke up the crowds by riding horses into the listeners, trampling and beating them.

Similar, more severe punishments were meted out to religious nonconformists by the Puritan magistrates of earlier colonial New England — whippings with knotted cords, imprisonments on bread and water, boring through the tongue with a red-hot iron, fines, banishments.

One dissident was chained to a log for 20 days in winter. Others suffered being locked in stocks in the public square, having their ears cut off, being stripped to the waist and whipped through the town while tied behind a cart, burning of the right hand with an "H" for heresy. Four Quakers were hanged.

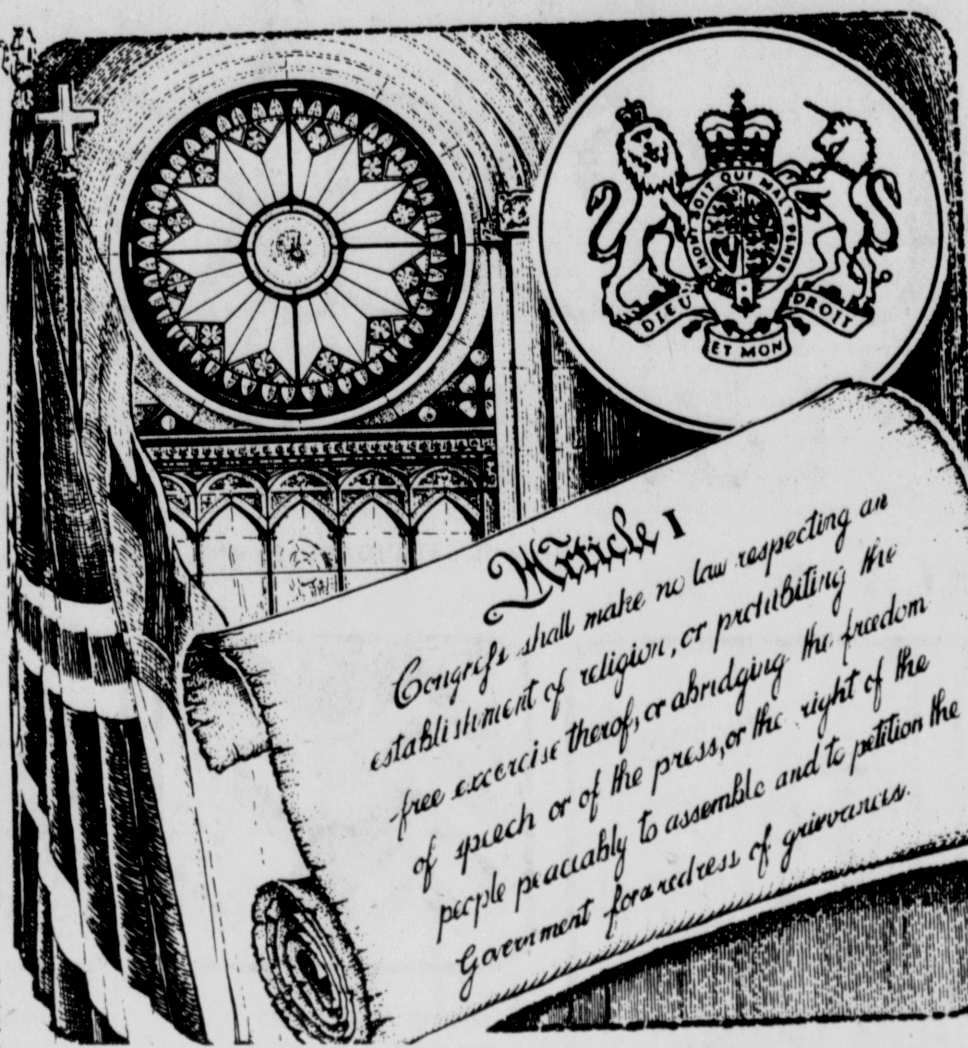

It was a time of legislated church establishments in America. Although most harsher tortures had ceased by 1700, the government churches, the arrests, fines and denial of civil rights to dissenters continued in some areas for another 100 years or more, beyond the founding of the United States.

Although many had migrated to America to gain religious freedom from what they considered ecclesiastical tyranny, "it did not necessarily mean they were interested in such freedom for others," says historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr.

"Possessed of the true faith, as they supposed, some among them could be as intolerant of heretics in their midst as the state churches of their homelands had been toward them."

It was an odd circumstance, an irony of America's development, but it led eventually to an unprecedented innovation in world history — the separation of church from state, the severing of the cords binding religion to civil authority, making faith a matter of free choice and voluntary support.

That achievement of religious liberty — a principle that spread elsewhere — is "the most striking contribution of America to the science of government," says historian Sanford H. Cobb. Historian Martin Marty calls it "one of the most drastic changes in public religion in Western history" without war over it.

It had been virtually untold before. For nearly 1,500 years of Western civilization, governments and Christianity were bound together in the "old world" with varying church establishments, Roman Catholic or Protestant, with varying degrees of enforced conformity.

That same pattern initially was continued in America. Even though the colonists often had come to the new country in order to worship in their own way, they insisted on adherence to it.

Established churches prevailed in most of the colonies, with laws requiring dwellers to pay taxes to support the church and its ministers, to heed Sabbath laws and, in some cases, to attend worship. Enforcement varied. Only church members, or in some instances, avowed Protestants, could hold office or vote — a privilege also limited to property owners.

Church establishments meant official favoritism for the espoused church and, in turn, its blessings for the authorities, according to them a kind of "divine right," with dissenters persecuted, hemmed in or driven out.

As a noted Massachusetts minister, Cotton Mather, put it in 1690: "We came hither because we would have our posterity settled under pure and full dispensation of the gospel defended by rulers that should be ourselves."

General belief held that civil peace and moral health depended on a firm maintenance of religion by governments — a concept and practice that had prevailed throughout Christendom ever since the Roman Emperor Constantine in 313 A.D. allied state with church.

That link, preserved through the centuries of Catholicism, also continued in Protestant-ruled countries of Europe after the 16th-century Protestant Reformation. It was transplanted to early America.

"No nation of Europe had yet divided the state from the churches," notes historian Perry Miller. "No government had yet imagined that religion could be left to individual conscience."

Pockets of toleration existed in the colonies, most notably in Rhode Island, conditionally in Pennsylvania and, temporarily, partially in Maryland. But established churches held sway in nine of the 13 colonies at the time of the American Revolution, and would continue in some of them until well into the 19th century.

A movement swelled in the years before the Revolution, however, that both challenged the church-state ties, eventually severing them, and that fanned the flame of independence and national consciousness. Historians call that wave of "common people's" religion, idealism and American fraternity and confidence the "Great Awakening."

It surged in the 1730s and 1740s, led by ministers such as Congregationalist Jonathan Edwards, Presbyterian Gilbert Tennent and Methodist George Whitefield, stirring a sense of national identity, moral autonomy and the spirit of '76.

The movement criss-crossed colonial boundaries of class and geography, rural and city life, the educated and uneducated, landholders and black slaves, spreading a cohesive attitude among provincial populations that previously had been separated, generating an inclusive American camaraderie of common interests, common loyalties, a common cause.

Whitefield, starting in Philadelphia, and others traveled through the colonies, holding meetings, challenging the deadness of state religions, bolstering the cause of dissenters such as Baptists and Presbyterians.

Edwards of Massachusetts, a towering Puritan theologian, philosopher and student of psychology and natural phenomena, contended that people could experience God directly and respond independently of the formal church-state structures, that God's vitalizing power worked through individuals responding to his spirit.

Nevertheless established churches persisted until after the American Revolution, when they began to collapse.

Only a few exceptions previously had shunned the religiously discriminatory systems, most notably Rhode Island, "Rogue's Island," it was called by surrounding New England Puritans. It was a scandal to many, but a beacon of liberty and refuge to many Baptists, Quakers, Mennonites and also to some of the few Roman Catholics and Jews.

The colony was purchased by the firebrand Baptist Roger Williams in 1636 after he was banished from Massachusetts for contending that the state had no jurisdiction over conscience. He made his "Providence Plantation" open to all "distressed in conscience," including "even Popish and Jewish consciences."

Under a charter obtained in 1647, the civil code provided that "all men may walk as their conscience persuades them, every one in the name of his God without molestation, in the name of Jehovah their God forever and ever."

Another early cradle of religious rights, although somewhat qualified and short-lived, was Maryland, where Roman Catholic proprietor Cecil Calvert, Lord Baltimore, in 1636 directed the governor not to "trouble, molest or discountenance any person professing to believe in Jesus Christ."

That policy became law in Maryland's Toleration Act of 1649. But the act also authorized the death penalty and forfeiture of property for anyone who shall "blaspheme God... or shall deny our Savior Jesus Christ to be the Son of God." This protected Protestants and Catholics but not Jews.

However, beginning in the 1660s, because of shifting rule in England, Catholicism in Maryland was suppressed intermittently over the next two decades, amid vigorous efforts to establish Anglicanism, the Church of England, which finally was done in 1702.

Discrimination and animosity toward Catholics was widespread in the colonies, where a custom of a "Pope's Day" to burn the Pope in effigy was common outside Maryland.

Another conditional zone of toleration was Quaker William Penn's Pennsylvania, originally including Delaware. Its form of government of 1682 gave freedom of worship and full civil rights to all "who profess to believe in Jesus Christ," temporarily excluding Jews. It became a center for Baptists, Mennonites, Presbyterians and Lutherans as well as Quakers.

Delaware, separated in 1702, granted full rights to anyone believing in Almighty God. Pennsylvania's charter of privileges of 1701 granted free worship to all believers in "one Almighty God," thus including Jews, but still limited rights to hold office to those believing in Christ.

In the other colonies, Anglican establishments existed in Virginia, Georgia, North and South Carolina, with varying degrees of enforcement. Anglicanism and Dutch Reformed shared mastery in New York. New Jersey's "melting pot" population made for leniency. Congregational establishments prevailed in Massachusetts, then including Maine, and in New Hampshire and Connecticut.

But in the ferment of the Great Awakening, followed by the Declaration of Independence, the legally empowered church establishments began to crumble, a process abetted by the U.S. Constitution of 1789 forbidding any religious tests for holding federal office, and the first 10 Constitutional amendments of 1790 declaring that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or abridging the free exercise thereof."

But the federal policy was not then imposed on the states, and some time elapsed before they adopted it. It began in Virginia with its Bill of Establishing Religious Freedom in 1786, a work of Thomas Jefferson.

Disestablishment proceeded gradually in other states, but did not occur until 1818 in Connecticut, 1819 in New Hampshire and 1833 in Massachusetts, where an established church had existed for two centuries.

But the nation, in separating church from state, had emblazoned a new principle of religious freedom in the world. It did not mean the nation was irreligious, but only that government would not prescribe nor finance religious preferences and the people could exercise faith free of partisanship or restrictions.

It put religion in the "marketplace," an appropriate setting in a free-enterprise America.

"When a religion is good," Benjamin Franklin said, "I conceive that it will support itself, and when it cannot support itself, and God does not take care to support it, so that its professors are obliged to call for the help of the civil power, it is a sign, I apprehend, of its being a bad one."

Students Appear More Tolerant

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — In the late '60s students pounded at the structure of business and government. They heckled politicians speaking at college forums and booed corporate recruiters off the campus. At worst, their dissent turned to riots and sometimes tragedy. Today, students are yet to come full circle, but hostility and criticism, while still pointed, have cooled.

This was the assessment of business leaders who recently spoke at a four-week seminar here for 51 college students from across the country.

Views expressed by students at the "Operation Enterprise" seminar sponsored by American Management Associations showed they:

—Talk of growing distrust of society's institutions.

—Temper idealism with the realities of business.

—Are uncompromising in their view that there should be no corruption in business and government.

—Fault business for waiting for government regulations to push it into action rather than initiating changes itself.

—Feel business may be able to solve the nation's problems through continued technological advancement.

—Have a growing anti-union sentiment because unions do not seem to be working in the best interest of their members.

"In some ways students have returned to where they were in 1963 when we began the seminars," says Robin Schade, director of young adult activities for AMA, a nonprofit, management educational organization. "I can't say they have become conservatives, but they have certainly moved in that direction. For instance, in the latest seminar only one of the 30 or so men had shoulder length hair. Five years ago the ratio would have been reversed."

One thing that has continued as strongly as ever over the years, leaders agree, is the students' independent thinking.

The purpose of the seminars is to give a clear, balanced picture of the real world of management, rather than sell students on the pleasant trappings usually associated with executive suite activities, according to AMA president James L. Hayes.

Dawna Denson will graduate with honors

HENDERSON, Tenn. — Dawna-Gay Denson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.D. Denson of Parma, Mo., will graduate magna cum laude with an associate in arts degree in the 68th annual graduating exercises at Freed-Hardeman College at 10 a.m. May 15.

A business education major, Miss Denson is one of 383 graduates. At Freed-Hardeman, she is a member of the Philomathean social club and the girls religious training class. Freed-Hardeman College, a private, liberal arts college, will confer its first four-year degrees on this "Spirit of '76" graduating class.

Eagleton checks into remedies to aid in the student money pinch

WASHINGTON — Missouri Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., has requested Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld to investigate the possibility of advancing money to students under the Armed Forces Health Professions Scholarship Program to cover taxes to be withheld on the April payments.

According to Eagleton, the law has expired which exempted the money received under the program from income tax, and students will now be paying tax on $10,000 or more a year in "income" with only $400 a month in actual spending money.

Eagleton said the Internal Revenue Service had no choice but to require the withholding of tax after the law had expired.

Legislation to extend the tax exemption is stalled in a Senate committee, but will probably be part of the major tax reform bill, expected to be voted on by June.

Eagleton noted the money would only be a temporary advance designed to prevent hardship, thus the budget for the year would not be affected.

Welding tools are stolen from center

PUXICO — Welding tools stolen Monday night at the Mingo Job Corps Center included torches, a tank and 1,000 pounds of welding rod, the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department said today. An adding machine and other smaller items were also taken.

The items were taken from four different buildings at the Job Corps Center. A lock had been forced open on each building.

The investigation is continuing.

MYSTERY FAN
CHURCHVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Stephen Clarke, an English teacher, is a mystery fan.

At Spencerport High School, he teaches a course in detective fiction which he created a few years ago, and he has written a textbook on the subject.

Clarke said he used mysteries as a device for teaching the principles of logic and or-derly composition.

Resolution
A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2" hot-mix asphaltic pavement on 6" soil cement base or 4" compacted granular base meeting State Highway specifications with concrete curb and gutters on Frisco Street from the north side of Compress Road to the north side of North Street in the city of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the council of the city of Sikeston, state of Missouri, as follows: section 1: that the council of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the city of Sikeston, section 2: that the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement, section 3: that the estimated cost of the improvement is $8.00 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement, section 4: that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the state of Missouri and the ordinances of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the city council the general revenue fund of the city of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement, section 5: that any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the state of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the industrial commission of Missouri, section 6: that the city clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 5th day of April, 1976. Approved: Don Fulton, Mayor. Attest: S. Lynn Lancaster City Clerk.

NASHVILLE—Bids for one of the final links of Interstate 155, a segment to connect Tennessee and Missouri, will be opened May 7 by Tennessee Transportation Department.

The job, which is expected to cost $4.2 million, calls for base and paving, plus installation of guardrail and signs on a stretch of superhighway from the east end of the new Mississippi River bridge to the west end of a bridge over Lennox Road (Secondary Route 8025) just north of Finley.

A state Transportation Department spokesman said the entire Tennessee segment of I-155 should be open by the end of 1977.

It will reach from U.S. Highway 51 north of Dyersburg to the river span, then to I-55 near Hayti, Mo. The interstate bridge across the Mississippi is nearly complete.

A representative of the Missouri State Highway Department said all contracts on the roadway in that state will either be let or scheduled for letting this month.

He said it is "theoretically possible" for the construction work to be wound up by the end of this calendar year, but speculated that full use of the link probably will not be possible until the summer or fall of 1977.

"Weather is right in the middle of it," he said.

Completion of the artery will mean that for the first time there will be a way for motor vehicle traffic to cross the Mississippi River in northwest Tennessee and Southeast Missouri without having to use a ferry.

Samuel Johnson, following the January, 1775, publication of his book Journey to the Hebrides, wrote Boswell, "I am going to write about the Americans." Boswell knew how Johnson felt about the colonists' cause, yet was compelled to state his own opinions. Boswell wrote to Johnson: "I am ashamed to say that I have read and thought little on the subject of America . . . our government has been precipitant and severe in the resolutions taken against the Bostonians. Well do you know that I have no kindness for that race. But nations, or bodies of men, should . . . have a fair trial. . . ." The World Almanac notes.

Scott City parks are without funds

SCOTT CITY— Incorrect figures used by the city for some time in its Bureau of Outdoor Recreation Accounting have left the city's park board with no funds to begin operation of recreational facilities — most importantly, the city's new swimming pool — this summer.

At a City Council meeting Monday night, councilmen learned the BOR account has a deficit of $10,927.83. The deficit, Mayor James Cauble explained is not because of mishandling of funds, but resulted from simple computing errors that occurred several years ago and were not detected.

Police Chief Ralph Hayes discussed various ordinances pertaining to operation of his department. He cited several as being unrealistic such as those saying police cannot leave city limits, a policeman can be fired if convicted of a misdemeanor and one calling for the chief to be available 24 hours a day.

He said police must leave the city limits because of a co-operative work agreement with Illmo, and pointed out a misdemeanor could be nothing more than a traffic ticket.

Sworn in as new councilmen were Pat O'Brien, ward four, John Ashcraft, ward two; Lester McKee and Evin Wadlington, ward three and Larry Waddle, ward one. In response to numerous public complaints that the council terminated its business at 10 p.m. Monday night's meeting continued until a near record time of 11:30.

Arlie Jackson was awarded the city trash hauling contract at a charge of $2.85 per month for homes, with the contractor to do the fee collecting. Alley service, where alleys are passable, will be provided at a higher rate. Although residents may keep trash covered and take it to a landfill, the council said it will strictly enforce regulations pertaining to burning barrels, and litter or garbage cluttering property.

The city agreed to make monetary contributions to two groups. I will up from $10 to $15 per month a share of the $100 rent payment on the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation Center here, and will donate $15 pre month toward operation on the Retired Senior Volunteer Program here, which distributes hot meals to shutins.

A request from Cape Girardeau County Sheriff Ivan L. McLain was turned down, however. He asked that the city contribute $50 for state data received via a computer service system. The council declined, saying that Cape County essentially gets the same service — although not computerized — free from Scott City when requested.

In other business, the council: — Tabled discussion of a beer and liquor license ordinance, and tabled discussion on annexation of portions of the city to the north and the south.

— Ruled that property purchased by Jim Miller on Ellis street is zoned commercially and therefore can be used for a welding shop.

— Decided to have a committee make a recommendation on whether or not to terminate a service agreement with See-Mor Cable TV on the grounds of lack of performance.

— Authorized purchase of a used transmission for the police car. Police are currently driving their own vehicles, Chief Hayes said.

— Referred to the city attorney a request by Fred E. Dormeyer of Cape Girardeau for payment of $1,350 fee as a consulting engineer.

— Accepted Ralph Miller's resignation as city treasurer. The job pays $20 per month, and anyone interested should contact city officials.

— Appointed Mrs. Charlene Markland city clerk. She replaces Mrs. Ada Jane Davis, who resigned.

— Read the ordinance for purchase of a 100,000 gallon water tank at a cost of $62,800.

— Accepted a bid of $1,536.65 from Modern Roofing Co., for repair of city hall there.

Palm Sunday concert to be aired Thursday

The 19th annual Palm Sunday concert, presented Sunday afternoon by the Sikeston High School concert choir and Moderne Chorale, under the direction of Gordon Beaver, will be televised on channel 6 by the Sikeston Public School cable television station at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

The concert includes selections by each of the choirs, Moderne Chorale, girls trio and mixed quartet.

Beaver said the choirs appreciate the opportunity to have the concert broadcast on the community television system for the benefit of people who missed the live program.

Ford rejects Carter's term "ethnic purity"

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he rejects the term "ethnic purity," but believes "an ethnic heritage is a great treasure" that should not be destroyed by federal housing laws.

Asked about Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter's reference to "ethnic purity" of neighborhoods, Ford said Tuesday, "I would not use that term to describe any of my policies."

At a White House news conference, he said it is "not the way to describe the practical situation" involving government housing policy.

Carter stirred controversy last week by saying in an interview that the government should not pursue policies that force the alteration of "ethnic purity" of neighborhoods. Some critics claimed there were racial overtones in the statement.

Carter later apologized for the use of the term, but said he remained opposed to the "arbitrary use of federal force" to change a neighborhood's ethnic character. His comments were in regard to legal efforts to force the government to finance construction of low-income housing in affluent suburbs as well as in poor inner-city areas.

Ford seemed to support Carter's stand on allowing neighborhoods to retain ethnic identity, saying, "I don't think that federal action should be used to destroy that ethnic treasure."

But he said he is sworn to uphold present federal housing laws, which give local governments a great deal of autonomy and responsibility as to where low-income housing should be located.

Ford said Carter will face a test in the April 27 Pennsylvania primary, which will determine "whether that remark will have any impact on the support that he has heretofore gotten in the black communities of the various states."

Carter was campaigning in Philadelphia where he said, "I am happy to have aroused the interest and the opposition of the President."

The former Georgia governor said Ford "has often expressed his preference not to have me as an opponent and I guess he has now joined the 'stop Carter movement.' But what he should know from me is that I am going to stop him in November."

In other political developments Tuesday:

— Ford met with former Texas Gov. John Connally, their second White House talk in 12 days, but said he neither sought or received Connally's endorsement in the May 1 Texas primary. Ford nominated Ross N. Sterling, a member of Connally's Houston law firm, to a federal judgeship on Monday.

Ford called GOP challenger Ronald Reagan a formidable opponent, but said "We're winning and we're going to keep on winning." He also praised Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and said Kissinger will remain in his job, despite criticism from political opponents.

— Carter countered speculation that the "ethnic purity" remark might have cost him support from blacks, appearing in Atlanta early in the day with the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., father of the slain civil rights leader.

King told several thousand persons at a rally that Carter "has been for equal justice when it wasn't an easy thing to be for in southern Georgia." King said of Carter, "I love him and believe in him."

— Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan charged in Texas that Ford is "proceeding to give away the Panama Canal" and said he had a transcript of recent closed-door testimony exposing that plan.

He quoted from what he said was a transcript of testimony by Ambassador At-Large Elsworth Bunker, chief U.S. negotiator in the Panama Canal talks.

Symington's campaign aided by Mrs. Onassis

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — While Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis made a large contribution to Rep. James Symington's U. S. Senate bid, the parents of Rep. Jerry Litton made a very timely contribution to their son's political quest for that same office.

Two days before the U. S. Supreme Court severely limited the amount immediate family members can contribute to a candidate's bid for office, Charles and Mildred Litton, parents of Rep. Litton, contributed $27,000 to their son's campaign.

That contribution spans the course of the first quarter of the year, as campaign expense and contribution reports were due in the secretary of state's office this week.

Now, after the court decision, immediate family members are only allowed to contribute $1,000 per person per primary and general election to any one candidate.

Former first lady Mrs. Onassis contributed $1,000 to Symington's bid to replace his father, Stuart, who is retiring after 23 years at that post.

Most of the candidates for the senate seat have raised more than $100,000 since they began their respective races, with the only major Republican candidate, state Atty. Gen. John Danforth, raising about $320,000 to lead the pack of contenders.

Sources of contributions for the various candidates ranged from Mrs. Onassis' contribution to a single dollar donation to the Litton campaign from a Missouri housewife.

Much of Danforth's contributions came in larger donations, ranging from $100 to $1,000 from many businesses and individuals throughout the state.

Former Gov. Warren Hearnes, another Democratic senatorial hopeful, raised most of his $255,000 last year. Litton has raised $114,000 while Symington has garnered about $144,000.

Kansas City Mayor Charles Wheeler, who has announced he will seek the senate seat, has raised $4,669 to date.

Litton received a number of contributions from ranchers, cattlemen and farmers from Missouri and surrounding states.

Without exception, the major candidates for the senate post spent the majority of their money this period on advertising and media costs.

Hearnes, Litton and Danforth all have spent more than $20,000 in advertising expenses, state records show.

Litton spent $8,000 on a political poll and another $2,600 for airing his weekly "Dialogue with Litton" television show outside of his home in the 6th District.

Utility rate hikes to customers may stop

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An overhaul of the procedure allowing electric utilities to automatically pass on to customers increased costs for fuel has been tightened up from the current process to curb any possibility of abuse, members of the Missouri Public Service Commission feel.

"The incentives to cheat just aren't very strong," says Commissioner Stephen Jones, who has been in charge of the review of the controversial procedure.

The five-member commission is expected to give final consideration today to Jones' proposed order extending the fuel-adjustment billing method for another two years, but in a "drastically revised" form. Among other things, the order calls for companies to return any intentional overcharges under fuel adjustment with an additional 6 per cent.

The commission had put the proposal in final form late last week. Commissioner Hugh Sprague commented that the utilities are "going to do a better job with the eye on them all the time."

The order also calls for no further action against the Kansas City Power and Light Co., which was accused of assessing the automatic hike for power it purchased from another utility even though the power did not have any fuel cost. The result, according to the allegation, was a customer overcharge of more than $2 million during the first nine months of 1975.

Jones said in the order that the current fuel adjustment procedure is unclear in its application in such cases, and the revision called for under the new procedure will insure no problems like that in the future.

Commissioners expected the order to be appealed to the courts, not by utilities even though they are expected to be dissatisfied by some of the provisions, but by Public Counsel William Barwick and consumer groups, who have opposed the entire theory of automatic fuel cost triggered rate hikes.

The PSC authorized fuel adjustment for residential customers on a two-year experimental basis in February 1974. Since the beginning of this year, the commission has reviewed the operation of the method through briefs and public hearings.

Over the past two years, the automatic rate hikes passed on to the average utility customer have equaled the equivalent of an extra month's electric bill, according to commission records.

Under the order, the fuel adjustment charges will be limited only to increased costs in the price of coal. The present method has allowed increased costs for all fuel along with pollution control additives and some transportation costs to be passed on in the monthly assessments.

To insure there is no abuse in application of the new procedure, the commission staff will conduct annual audits of the nine major electric utilities.

The new method is also expected to cut down the time lag for the utilities to collect the increased fuel costs as well as make it easier for the commission's staff to thoroughly monitor the validity of the monthly fuel adjustment billings.

"No rate payer welcomes an open ended price structure," the order said. "Every effort must be made to assure the rate payer that only necessary, legitimate and unavoidable costs are being passed through."

The new method will go into effect on May 31 with any uncollected costs resulting from the lag under the current procedure to be collected over the next year through a monthly surcharge.

Private distributors of food stamps may be eliminated soon

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Private firms contracted by the state to distribute food stamps could be eliminated by increasing the fees charged for transacting coupons, state Auditor George Lehr said Tuesday.

In an audit of the Division of Family Services food stamp vendor program, Lehr said "the division has experienced difficulty in obtaining reputable vendors at the current rate of 50 cents per transaction."

The division noted they have tried to obtain sufficient funds in past years to increase the rate and that money has been appropriated for the year beginning in July to finally allow them to do it.

The audit of the program was conducted by Lehr in conjunction with his review of the operations of Money Town, Inc., a St. Louis vendor involved in the loss of more than $1 million in food stamp funds. That report pointed out many of the deficiencies in the state's vendor program.

Lehr's report on the overall program also questioned the validity of contracts the division has with three private food stamp vendors, and the auditor urged the division to obtain an attorney general's opinion on the legality of those pacts.

Outside of the major urban areas of the state, the division has developed a plan to replace vendors with mail distribution of the coupons in an effort to cut down on possible abuses.

Lehr also recommended increased security at the division's main vault where an estimated $7 million in food coupons is stored and increased bonding for employees handling coupons.

The auditor also noted that current contracts with private vendors do not require the vendor having theft insurance, employee bonding or a provision making the vendor liable for losses. The division said the contract is being redrawn to take those problems into consideration.

Sikeston men named to post in Scottish Rite

Two Sikeston men have been appointed general co-vice chairmen of the south area membership committee by the St. Louis office of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite and will work with other committee membs and lodge captains to promote membership in the Masonic order.

Theo Pindexter, 311 W. Gladys St., 32nd degree Mason, and Ira L. "Scotty" Taylor, 711 Montgomery St., 32nd degree, Knight Commander of the Court of Honor, are among nine co-vice chairmen appointed for an area covering Scott, Mississippi, Dunklin, Cape Girardeau and portions of Perry, Stoddard, Bollinger and New Madrid counties. Both are members of Sikeston Masonic Lodge No. 310.

The committee also has several vice chairmen and a number of captains from each Masonic lodge represented in the area. Together, they will work together to promote membership in the Scottish Rite among Masons.

Appointed as Scottish Rite membership lodge captains for Sikeston Masonic Lodge No. 310 are Charles Ainsworth, Bobby Conley, C. F. Cline, John Hux, Billy Johnson, Fred Lashmet, Joseph Mills, Billy Munger, Walter Rayburn, Lee Stallings, Lowell E. Webb and David Wehr.

The immediate goal of the Scottish Rite membership teams is to sign up candidates for the rite's Valley of St. Louis one-day summer reunion on June 5.

House makes massive revisions in the conflict of interest law

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Massive revisions of the state's conflict of interest law covering public officials, which includes reporting of economic holdings and coverage of many local officials and elected officers gained final House acceptance Tuesday.

The House also gave final approval and sent to the Senate bills which would:

—Require persons convicted of 14 specific crimes employing deadly weapons to serve a mandatory two full years of their sentences before being eligible for parole.

—Clarify the role and responsibilities of the state's public counsel who represents consumers in utility rate increase hearings.

—Outlawing the reproduction of music without the owners' consent.

Elected officials making $15,000 a year or elected and appointed officials handling a budget of more than $1 million annually would be required to file detailed reports of the financial interests under the new conflict of interest bill.

The measure has gained wide support from Gov. Christopher S. Bond and several public interest and good government groups.

"It recognizes that a public office is a public trust, that the people have a right to know if a private individual is making a profit from a public office," said Kansas City Democrat James Baker just prior to the House's overwhelming acceptance of the measure.

Persons covered under the proposal would have to list businesses in which they have 10 per cent interest, an interest worth more than $1,000 or from which they receive an income of more than $1,000 annually. Sources of income over $500, sources of gifts over $100 and real estate valued at more than $10,000 and debts of more than $1,000 must be reported also.

The reports would be due periodically before and after a person takes office. It would cover all elected state officials and major appointed state officials along with members of about half of the state's school boards and other county government bodies.

"It's clear that the people want to exercise their right to know," Baker said. The present law only applies to the governor, lieutenant governor and legislators.

The mandatory sentencing bill won on a lopsided 145-6 vote despite claims it would do little to curb the rising crime rate.

One representative claimed the measure would cost the state millions of dollars because new prisons would have to be built to accommodate the influx of larger prison populations due to the sentencing provisions.

Rep. Jack Buechner, R-Kirkwood, said no statistics have been developed to show the mandatory sentences affect the level of violent crime.

The council formally accepted the downtown improvement project of canopies and sidewalks constructed by Cowan Construction Co. of Sikeston.

Tanna Parish, urban renewal director, reviewed the community development program for the coming year to acquaint new council members with the project.

Parish informed the council that innovative grants might be available through the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the restoration of the old depot on the west end of town.

The historical society has title to the depot building, which is on the National Registry. Land acquisition would have to be included in the city's application for the grant. The council agreed to send a letter of intent to HUD.

Downs informed the council that the city has received the third entitlement period revenue-sharing check in the amount of $36,343.

March figures for assistance

NEW MADRID — Assistance funds disbursed in March by the New Madrid County Division of Family Services office totaled $159,370.16, with $124,853 of that amount paid to families receiving aid to dependent children.

A total of 914 families with 2,218 children received aid to dependent children payments averaging $136.60 per family.

State supplemental payments or state supplemental and federal supplemental security income payments were made to 846 persons. State supplemental payments amounted to $23,404.

Another 530 persons were on the supplemental security income rolls who do not receive a cash grant and are eligible for Medicaid benefits only from the state.

Medical assistance was provided to 294 persons, who did not receive a cash check and are eligible for Medicaid benefits.

General relief funds of $7,290 were paid to 106 families consisting of 122 persons for an average check of $59.75 per person.

Supplemental aid to the blind in the amount of $2,757 was paid to 29 persons. One person received a nursing care payment of $200.

Supervisory services were provided for 236 children. Equal funds of $533.08 from the New Madrid County Court and state boarding funds were paid for room and board clothing, medicine, dental care and incidentals for the children.

Food stamp figures for May 1975 disclosed that 1,379 households consisting of 5,009 people received food stamp coupons valued at $181,495, with $95,107.50 being bonus coupons.

Arts and Education Council. Mrs. Moore described the performing and teaching groups which students have been exposed to during the past two years.

Robert Buchanan, the high school principal, presented an activities report which gave a breakdown of student participation in athletic and non-athletic activities.

Board member Phil Barkett urged the board to consider once again the possibility of building a swimming pool, possibly in cooperation with the city. Barkett said matching funds from the state may be available.

Barkett and board member David Bailey were appointed by the board to study the issue further.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The House received a proposed constitutional change Tuesday from one of its committees which would streamline the state's court system.

The House Economic Committee sent the House the measure which revamps all court systems in Missouri. The bill has been passed already by the Senate.

If the House approves the measure, a joint legislative negotiating committee would be established to iron out any differences left between both houses' versions.

Voters must then approve the proposal if any final compromise is reached by the legislators.

Impetus has been given to legislative changes in the court system this year with the advent of outside attempts to push a citizens' initiative drive on to the ballot.

The Missouri Bar and the Metropolitan Bar Association of St. Louis have threatened to place their own proposed court revision plans on next fall's ballot.

The legislative revision plan would take effect in 1979, giving the present system time to adjust to the changes.

That plan calls for the abolition of all special courts and would raise all magistrate and probate judges to the level of associate circuit court judges in added duties to help alleviate the present crowded circuit court dockets.

The proposal retains the Supreme Court and appellate court levels to set up a three-tiered system, and would allow the Supreme Court to establish a small claims court under associate judges by rule. Attempts to establish a small claims court system have met with opposition by lawmakers in the past.

The Economic Committee also sent the House a measure that would allow the state to spend funds on a federally subsidized program under which transportation costs for the elderly are paid.

Boy Scout summer camping dates were established Tuesday night during the Okeechobee District monthly business meeting at the Sikeston Production Credit Association building.

Camping chairman John Peel of Sikeston announced that the district camporee is planned May 14-16 at the Durwood Dover farm near Oran. The camporee theme will be pioneering.

Camp Lewallen, located near Silva, will open for summer camp on June 13 and run for six one-week sessions. Eight troops from the district are scheduled to attend. A pre-camp inspection will take place May 22 as part of a Ladies Day program for scout leaders and their wives at the camp.

The district is planning to send a district provisional troop for any scouts who wish to attend camp but would be unable to unless the district provides leadership.

In other business, the district announced that over 500 Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorers participated in the scout-o-rama at Kingsway Plaza Mall last month, which raised $4,500 through the ticket sales campaign. Nearly 40 per cent of the income was returned to participating units for their own activities.

Training chairman Duke Perry of Oran announced upcoming training programs: outdoor training for scoutmasters, June 4-5 at Camp Lewallen; woodbadge training, July 24-31 at Camp Vandeventer in Waterloo, Ill.; and troop leader development for older scouts at Camp Lewallen, June 6-12.

Advancement co-chairman Tony Heckemeyer and Jim Hux of Sikeston announced the institution of a merit badge of the month program for the district. The first subject will be aviation, which will be presented by Bill Swan of Sikeston. No date has been set.

District leaders also discussed plans to run two one-day sessions for Cub Scouts during the summer. An olympics program was discussed for one of the sessions. No specific dates were established.

Saints announce tryout dates for 1976 season

The Sikeston Saints baseball team will play their games during the summer of 1976 as a member of the Bi-State League. Sikeston will join teams from Cape Girardeau, Perryville, Ste. Genevieve, Herrin, Illinois and Anna, Illinois, as members of the six-team league.

Managing club affairs on and off the field will be Dale Forbis, Jim Saulter and Tom Masterson. A 40 to 50 game schedule (not completed yet) will begin with a conference contest at Perryville on May 16.

Team members, or those interested in making the 21-man playing squad, are urged to meet at V.F.W. Stadium at least once in the next three weeks. Starting Easter Sunday, the squad will assemble at the baseball field on East Malone at 2:30 each Sunday afternoon. Included in the activities will be fielding drills, information sessions and any try-outs necessary for prospective new members. A player must not have any high school eligibility left in order to compete in the Bi-State League. The league will not affect college eligibility.

Last year's Saints squad compiled an impressive 18-5 ledger against various competition. Many players will return from that team to bolster the efforts in the summer ahead. First baseman Jim Saulter (.327), infielder Kenny Urhahn (.358), pitcher Jeff Jackson (.306), infielder Rick Eisenbach (.339), Mitch Walker (.319), Les Schatzley (.409), Bruce Lawrence (.326) and Donny Taylor (.241) will all be counted upon. Newcomers Pat McClarty, Grant Dambach, Mike Cooksey, Bill Schatzley and Cliff Ford are reportedly going to be on the roster as well, thus adding some batting punch and hurling to the team as it faces a much more rugged schedule this time around.

Non-conference foes from Neudert, Illinois, Leadwood, Alton, Missouri, St. Louis and Sikeston will dot the schedule.

"We encourage all interested parties to show up for these meetings," said Dale Forbis. "The get-togethers are important for us to see what kind of team we will have. We have about six spots still open on the roster and anyone who shows up will be given a shot at making the team. Attitude, in addition to ability, is important."

The meetings will again be held each Sunday for the next three weeks: April 18, April 25 and May 2 at 2:30 each afternoon.

"Anyone who hasn't shown up or at least contacted us, won't be considered for the team roster," said Forbis. "At that time it will be just two weeks until our first game and we're going to have to hear from every one of our players before then."

As was the case last year, funding is needed to cover team expenses. Many generous folks kept the team on its feet last season, yet it still ran in the red. A committee has been established to get willing contributors to help. If you haven't been called on, please contact anyone connected with the club.

"Each five dollars will help," noted Forbis. If not monetary, then spiritual support is needed. Each Sikeston citizen is urged to attend the games involving the Saints.

"This will be some of the highest quality baseball ever played in Sikeston. We'd like to think that our team will put on performances very much worth seeing."

Finley turns to stars to bring A's AL crown

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles O. Finley, the first to introduce white baseball shoes, colored uniforms, Charley O. the Mule and night World Series games, has done it again.

The stars of the Oakland A's are about to be gazed upon. Finley, brash owner of the American League baseball team, has hired the first professional sports team astrologer.

In a telephone call to the Associated Press Tuesday night, Finley said Laurie Brady, a "nationally known" astrologer, has signed a 1976 contract with the team.

"It is the first time, definitely the first time (for a team as trologer). I am very up on what people are doing publicly astrological-wise," said the Chicago-based Miss Brady.

Her articles appear in such publications as the National Star, the National Enquirer, the Tatler and Midnight.

Finley said she will "converse occasionally" with A's Manager Chuck Tanner about the team's fortunes.

The outspoken 58-year-old owner of the A's, who were the World Series champions in 1972, 1973 and 1974, threw a dart at another baseball showman, manager owner Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox.

Finley said he suggested to Veeck that he should hire Miss Brady.

"Veeck was not smart enough to recognize her outstanding talents," he said of the astrologer, whom he described as "a vivacious redhead, an Irish girl with the most beautiful black eyes that you have ever seen."

But Finley said Veeck didn't think much of the idea. "Since he refused" even though she is from Chicago, Finley said he hired her.

Veeck could not be reached for comment.

Finley, an insurance magnate, said Miss Brady is on a retainer, but added, "We don't know what she's going to bill us" for her services.

Jays top I-SC

SCOTT CITY — The Charleston Bluejays advantage of a pair of big I-SC Ram errors as they rode to a 6-2 Scott-Mississippi Baseball Conference victory Tuesday afternoon.

Michael Dean's two-run double in the second inning put the Bluejays ahead early in the game. The Jays put together two hits, two walks and an error in the fifth inning to score three more runs, then added their final tally in the top of the seventh with a hit batsman, an error and two walks. Scott Hinkbein's two-run single in the bottom of the inning accounted for the Rams' only runs of the game.

Naile went all the way for Charleston in picking up the victory.

JACKSON — Clay Vanguilder of the Jackson Indians threw a one-hitter at the Cape Central Tigers Tuesday afternoon, but that one hit proved to be his undoing as Central came away with a 1-0 victory at Jackson.

It was designated hitter Mike Brandt's RBI double in the third inning that plated what turned out to be the winning run for the Tigers. John Zimmer had been hit by a pitch and then stole second to set up the run. Lacy Bernard of the Tigers gave up only two safeties in recording the shutout victory.

Costello cherishes win

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The tears that had welled in his eyes only days ago were gone. For the time being, anyway, Coach Larry Costello of the Milwaukee Bucks — battling for his job and his team — could enjoy his club's victory in the opening game of the National Basketball Association's Western Conference quarter-finals.

Only hours before the game, Costello had heard majority stockholder Jim Fitzgerald say that he would recommend that his coach be rehired — despite the angry rumors to the contrary, the ones that had brought Costello near tears when the regular season ended Sunday.

"The most important thing was winning tonight," Costello said Tuesday night after the Bucks' 110-107 triumph over the Detroit Pistons. "It (Fitzgerald's statement) was nice, but I'll be a lot more satisfied when we eliminate them (the Pistons) — if we can."

Costello's goal may well be reached if Gary Brokaw continues the play that helped lift the Bucks past the Pistons. The second-year guard scored 36 points and got Detroit playmaker Eric Money into foul trouble after just 4:39 of the first period.

In the NBA playoff quarter-final openers Tuesday night, the Washington Bullets topped the Cleveland Cavaliers 100-95 and the Seattle SuperSonics nipped the Phoenix Suns 102-99.

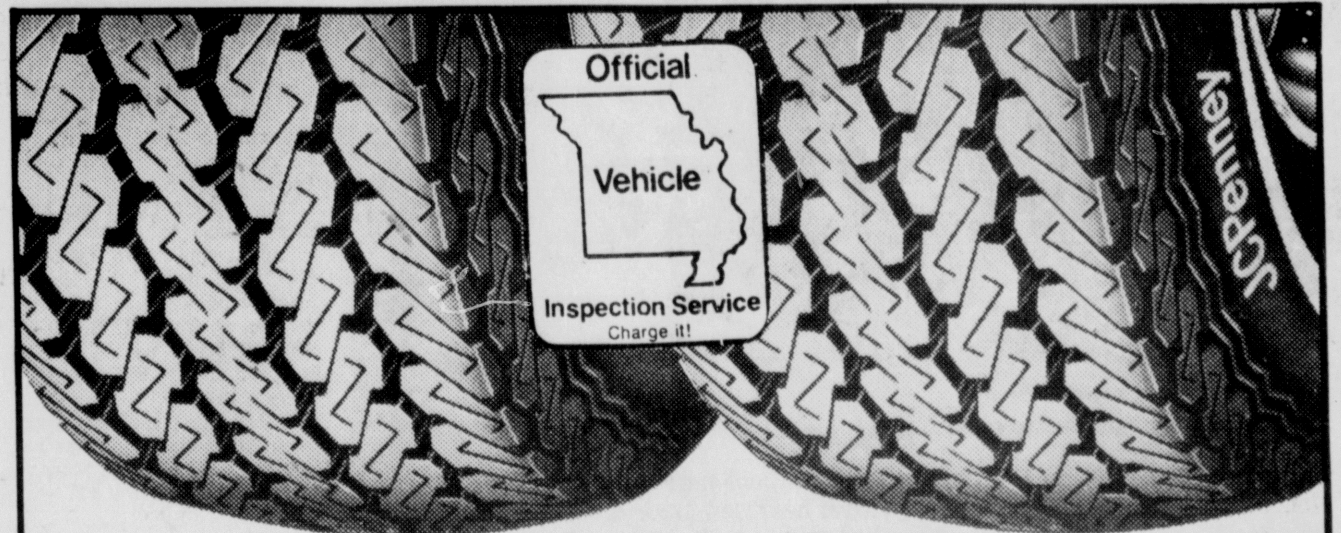

Brokaw scored nearly 28 points above his regular season average and added five assists, three rebounds, a steal and a blocked shot.

Bob Dandridge added 21 points and Brian Winters 18 for the Bucks; Bob Lanier had 25 for the Pistons, who face elimination if they don't win in Detroit Thursday night.

Bullets 100, Cavaliers 95
Elvin Hayes scored 28 points and helped Washington hold off a late Cleveland rally to take the Eastern Conference semi-final opener.

"Lumber company" wins

AP Sports Writer
As a bicentennial gift to the nation, the Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates are trying to lock up their respective pennant races by July 4.

World champion Cincinnati, nicknamed "The Big Red Machine," is undefeated in four games, while Pittsburgh, dubbed "The Lumber Company" is 3-0 in its pursuit of still another National League East title.

It may be too early to concede these two powerhouses their division titles, but with time, they may only get better.

"I ain't sure we'll win it," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, "but whoever does better play like hell because we'll play pretty good. I think it's a better team than last year."

"We'll be doing the same things, and we'll be in the race," said Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh.

On Tuesday, the Pirates rapped out 13 hits en route to a 14-4 romp over the St. Louis Cardinals, and the Reds snapped a 1-1 tie with five runs in the eighth inning to down the Atlanta Braves 6-1, pushing their four-game run production to 39.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs edged the New York Mets 5-4, the Houston Astros nipped the San Francisco Giants 2-1, and the San Diego Padres beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-5.

Issuing walks to "The Lumber Company" is like voluntarily walking the plank. The Cardinals sank their own ship by giving the Pirates 12 free passes.

And when the Pirates weren't walking, they were swinging from the heels, especially Dave Parker, who homered and knocked in five runs.

St. Louis starter Pete Falcone gave up five walks in the second inning and the Pirates capitalized for five runs.

For most of the Reds+Braves game, the famed Cincinnati power was dormant. But Cesar Geronimo's eighth-inning RBI single broke a tie and started the Braves' downfall before 37,973 fans, third largest opening-night crowd since the club moved to Atlanta 11 years ago.

Pinch-hitter Bob Bailey and Pete Rose each followed with run-scoring singles before Ken Griffey drilled a two-run single to right.

Cubs 5, Mets 4
Manny Trillo tripled and scored when Mets centerfielder Bruce Boiesclair hesitated on Rick Monday's two-out ninth-inning pop fly, which fell in for the game-winning hit.

Jerry Morales was the Cubs' hitting star with a pair of two-run homers. The Mets left a club-record 15 men on base.

The game was played before a record opening-day crowd of 44,818 at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

Astros 2, Giants 1
Consecutive run-scoring singles by the Astros' Skip Jutze and Roger Metzger in the seventh inning were enough to withstand three Houston errors in the eighth inning.

Padres 8, Dodgers 5
Dave Winfield slugged a grand-slam home run to highlight a seven-run seventh inning that vaulted San Diego past Los Angeles and ended Dodger pitcher Burt Hooton's 12-game winning streak. Hooton had not lost since July 10, 1975.

The loss was the Dodgers' third straight and it came before 52,703 fans, the largest opening crowd in Dodger Stadium history.

Kings' Goring has moment of glory

By FRANK BROWN

AP Sports Writer
Butch Goring of the Los Angeles Kings had played in 11 National Hockey League playoff games, never scoring a goal, never playing the hero's role that always seems reserved for the glamor boys. After more than two seasons of waiting, that role is his — even if the moment in the spotlight is as fleeting as the 27 seconds of overtime it took Butch Goring to score.

He seemed unaccustomed to the attention that accompanies a playoff game-winning goal. "It was a lucky goal, but we'll take it," Goring said after his Kings had trimmed the Boston Bruins 3-2 on the power play score Tuesday night.

"I got the puck in our end, carried most of the way down ice and dropped it to Bob Murdoch just inside the Boston zone," explained the hard-working center from St. Boniface, Man. "I broke for the net as Murdoch shot. (Boston goalie) Gerry Cheevers made a fine save but the puck went right out to Mike Murphy. I was beside the net and when Murphy shot, I just directed it in."

The goal gave the Kings a split in the first two games of the Stanley Cup quarter-final series and broke a 21-game Boston unbeaten string at home. The Bruins' last home loss came on Dec. 23 of last year ... at the hands of Butch Goring and the Kings.

In the other NHL playoff games Tuesday night, the Buffalo Sabres nipped the New York Islanders 3-2, also in overtime; the Montreal Canadiens topped the Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 and the Philadelphia Flyers tripped the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1. All the triumphs gave the victors 2-0 leads in the best-of-seven sets as the teams changed venues for Games Three and Four.

Sabres 3, Islanders 2
Buffalo right wing Danny Gare, though only in his second season, is far more at home than Goring during overtime games. His third career overtime goal — second in four games — at 14:04 of the extra session lifted the Sabres past the Islanders and gave his club its seventh triumph in eight such games.

New York had staged a valiant comeback from a 2-0 deficit with goals by Denis Potvin and J.P. Parise late in the third period — Parise's 20-footer with 1:55 remaining forcing the overtime.

But Buffalo, which had taken the lead on goals by Brian Spencer and Don Luce, held the Islanders without a shot in the added period and Gare sent home a Luce pass from behind the net to win it.

Canadiens 3, Black Hawks 2
Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Lemaire scored power play goals within 14 seconds late in the second period to help Montreal overcome an early Black Hawks lead.

Guy Lafleur scored the other Canadiens goal at 12 seconds of the third period. Darcy Rota tallied for Chicago, which got a great effort from injured veteran defenseman Bill White.

Flyers 3, Maple Leafs 1
Philadelphia wing Ross Lonsberry broke a 22-game personal scoreless string and Don Saleski tallied 70 seconds later in the second period to carry the Flyers past the Maple Leafs for the second night in a row.

Muncie inks long-term pact with NFL Saints

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Apparently leery of letting another big one get away, the New Orleans Saints have signed All-American running back Chuck Muncie to a seven-year, $1 million contract.

The pact expires two years after the contract of Coach Hank Stram, who earlier this year was given the job of bringing the dornsynb9back to life. Stram's contract was also reported to be in the vicinity of $1 million.

Recent court decisions have cast doubt on the life expectancy of the National Football League's so-called Rozelle Rule, which says the last team to hold a player's contract must be compensated if the athlete signs with another club — even if that contract has expired.

Since the courts have short-circuited the Rozelle Rule, and, in an apparent hedge against losing Muncie via the free agent route, the Saints conscripted the former California running star for seven years.

There has been speculation that other teams also would try to forestall sky-high bidding wars and the loss of future superstars by locking this year's crop of college players to longer contracts.

Muncie was the first of this year's top-round draft choices to sign with an NFL team.

In addition to being the longest contract in team history, it was also the quickest signing of a Saint draft choice.

Muncie came to Stram's three-day post-draft training camp with his agent, Mike Trope. The Saints said Trope and team vice president Harry Hulme negotiated for two hours, then signed the contract.

After signing, Muncie worked out for the first time with the Saints. He was excused from Monday's practices to get some rest after taking the red-eye flight from California.

He will begin training with the rest of the 86 players in camp.

Chaffee downs Kelly Hawks 6-3

CHAFFEE — Randy Newcomer flirted with a no-hitter for five innings before losing it in the sixth, but the Chaffee Red Devils survived a Kelly rally to come away with a 6-3 victory Tuesday afternoon at Chaffee's Harmon Field.

Newcomer had a perfect game going for four innings before yielding an unearned run in the fifth. Mike Robert finally touched Newcomer for the first Kelly safety with two out in the sixth when he blasted an RBI triple. Ron Schlosser then singled to drive in the Hawks' third and final run.

Score by Innings
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 R H E
Kelly 0 0 0 0 1 2 0 3 2 6
Chaffee 2 2 2 0 0 0 6 4 2
W. Newcomer L. McElmurry 2B
Kiefer 3B, Wachter, Robert

Scott Wachter ripped a triple to send home Chaffee's first run in the first and scored when Don Kiefer followed with a double. Chaffee scored twice more in both the second and third innings off starter and loser McElmurry, who gave up only four hits but was the victim of six Kelly errors. Four of Chaffee's runs were unearned.

Chaffee upped its record to 7-2.

Holbert was born to be a pro racing driver

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — When a child is eight years old and his father is an adroit sports car driver, it's not surprising that the youngster dreams of matching his dad's racing accomplishments.

When a teenager goes to work for Roger Penske and watches as Mark Donohue pilots a Penske-prepared auto to victory after victory, it's not surprising that the teenager dreams of duplicating such feats.

And when the eight-year-old and the teenager are the same individual, it comes as no surprise that he wants to become the premier race driver in America. Even four years at Lehigh University where he graduated with a degree in mechanical engineering didn't alter his career aspirations.

Al Holbert laughs as he says, "I didn't have much of a chance. I had to become a race driver."

And a highly successful one as he proved in winning the 12 Hours of Sebring race with co-driver Michael Keyser. It was his seventh victory on the Camel GT challenge series in the last 15 months. He was the top winner on the circuit in '75 with six triumphs.

Yet the 28-year-old hasn't attained the national fame that seemingly would come with such an impressive record. But he plans to change that this year, and the Sebring victory has laid the foundation on which he hopes to build.

Although a Porsche and Volkswagen dealer in Warrington, Pa., Holbert is switching from a Porsche to a Chevrolet Monza for the remainder of the Camel GT season beginning with Road Atlanta on April 11. The reason for the change is his belief that, if he can turn the General Motors product into a winner, the public will know who Al Holbert is.

"No one has been able to make it win," Holbert said. "If we can, it will help us (his racing business) build a reputation as a winner."

To achieve the goal of turning the Monza into a winner, Holbert will be relying on what Donohue taught him.

"I don't think anyone can teach you how to drive," Holbert said. "But Mark helped me with the other aspects of racing. We had a lot of long talks when I began driving in '71."

What they discussed was the attitude side of the sport. "He was a bug on professionalism. The preparation of yourself and the team."

"He said to stay away from the other guys. That you should figure things (how to drive the specific track, what chassis to use, etc.) out for yourself. And don't let the others psych you out. Some really are good at trying to psych you out and some can really be psyched."

"And most of all, never stop concentrating. He said it was zero (have an open mind) each time you went out (onto the track)."

Holbert was a good pupil and he has trained a good crew, headed by chief mechanic Doc Bundy, so that his total concentration can be trained on driving.

If the present Camel GT point leader can turn 1976 into the year that the name Al Holbert becomes as well-known as Donohue's was before his death last year, he believes he has an excellent chance of accomplishing two other major goals.

First, he wants to become part of this year's International Race of Champions series which matches 12 of the world's best drivers in identically-built Penske Camaros. The winner of IROC is billed unofficially as the "world's best driver."

Second, he wants to graduate from the Camel GT series to the Cards improve line & backfield as a result of pro grid draft

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The St. Louis Football Cardinals first moved to upgrade their defensive line in last week's National Football League draft and then used the bulk of their selections to stock up on running backs, receivers and defensive backs.

The team's No. 1 choice -- and the 22nd college player taken in the draft -- was defensive tackle Mike Dawson of the University of Arizona. The 6-4, 270-pounder was the Western Athletic Conference's lineman of the year in 1975 and gained second all-America honors from the Associated Press.

The Big Red did not have a second-round selection, having traded it a week before the draft to the Buffalo Bills for veteran defensive end Walt Patulski. The choice sent to Buffalo for Patulski was for the 52nd player taken in the draft.

The Cardinals stayed in the WAC for their third-round choice, offensive tackle Brad Oates of Brigham Young. After that, the only other linemen taken by the Big Red were tackle Greg Brewton of Michigan State in the 13th round and defensive end Raymond Crosier of Abilene Christian in the 14th round.

The team's other nine selections were divided equally between rushers, receivers and defensive backs. The fourth-round choice, wide receiver Pat Tilley of Louisiana Tech, ranked fifth in the NCAA in receiving last year and boasts a speed of 4.5 seconds in the 40-yard dash.

Fifth-round pick, running back Wayne Morris of SMU, set a school career rushing record of 3,044 yards. Runner Phil Rogers of Virginia Tech -- the Big Red's seventh-round selection -- was the first runner in his school's history to go over 1,000 yards rushing in a season.

The other receivers taken were Randall Burks (eighth round) of Southeastern Oklahoma State, who is also a kick returner, and Cecil Beaird of Fisk (16th). The other runner was Randy Walker of Bethune-Cookman (10th).

Big Red swap Tim Gray for K.C. pair

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs gave up defensive lineman Marvin Upshaw and safety Mike Sensibaugh for defensive back Tim Gray of the St. Louis Cardinals in a National Football League swap announced Tuesday.

Upshaw, 29, in his ninth year in the National Football League, is a 6-foot-4, 260-pounder from Trinity, Texas. Sensibaugh, 27, a 5-11, 190-pounder, played at Ohio State.

Gray, the Cardinals first-round draft choice in 1975, played in all 14 St. Louis games last year as a member of the specialty team.

Upshaw was a first-round draft choice of the Cleveland Browns in 1968 and went to the Chiefs in a trade in 1970.

Sensibaugh, an eighth-round draft choice of the Chiefs in 1971, has started at safety for the team for the last four seasons.

The Chiefs made the deal partly because of their unexpected loss of defensive back Jim Kearney in the recent expansion draft.

April 14, 1956
In a crypt of the Sikeston Mausoleum this afternoon was placed the body of one of Sikeston's most gracious and loveliest women, Mrs. Margaret Klein, widow of the late James M. Klein, 427 South Kingshighway.

Mrs. Klein died of a heart ailment at the Delta Community Hospital Saturday after a short illness. Harvey Milton Hopper, 75-year-old resident of Canalou, died on the 16th at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape.

Funeral services were held in Charleston Sunday for Mrs. Ida May Simmons of Route 2, Sikeston, who died Friday in a hospital in Cairo, Ill., after an illness of two weeks. Luther Leo Little, 211 Northwest street, died Sunday at the Delta Community Hospital after a long illness. He was 67 years old.

He was called to the 20th-floor penthouse about 5 a.m. April 5 and found Hughes "half naked with only bedsheets covering his body, ... very pale, with his right eye open, the left not so much but about half open, breathing in pants, slowly, in a state of complete unconsciousness."

His eyes showed little reaction to light, and his neck and face twitched. Hughes' hair was long, thin and gray, his beard stringy and dark chestnut in color. There were numerous bedsores on the body.

Aides said an open sore on the left side of Hughes' head was the result of a benign tumor that had been aggravated by a blow received in a fall. One of Hughes' aides told the court he suffered the fall in the Bahamas before he came to Acapulco Feb. 10.

Montemayor said Eric Iverson Bundy of Hughes' staff appeared to be in charge, and there were also two American doctors and a bodyguard in the room. When the Mexican expressed surprise that Hughes had been kept in the hotel in such condition, they told him Hughes was hard to deal with and did not want to go to a hospital.

An ambulance arrived about 8:15 a. m., the doctor said, and the driver reported they left for the airport at 10:30 a.m. The driver, C. Jaime Quevedo, said he saw his passenger's head as he was lifted into the plane, and he was "unconscious, not moving." He added that he was "not able to say whether the person they were transferring was alive or dead."

Dr. Lamb Jumping won't help osteoporosis

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- It is my misfortune to have osteoporosis and with it the loss of height. I have heard that jumping rope would help, but I don't know how. It is a shock treatment on the same principle that a deer grows new antlers when he has lost his.

I would appreciate any information you can give me about the subject of osteoporosis as I have already lost about two inches and am afraid I might lose more. I am only 4 feet 11 so you can see I am very disturbed about this.

DEAR READER -- Osteoporosis means loss of calcium and bone tissue. It is common, particularly in small Anglo Saxon women, after the menopause.

I don't think much of your idea of treatment. In fact, as the vertebrae lose bone tissue they are more susceptible to fractures. The kind of jarring that you might get with rope skipping might not be the best in the world for you.

I do approve of proper exercise for patients with osteoporosis. Those exercises should be directed toward strengthening the muscles in the back and prevent the curvature of the spine that often occur with the changes in bones in this problem. These are the kind of exercises that involve the backward movement of the arm in the way that the backstroke is accomplished by a swimmer and other exercises that strengthen the shoulder blades and those that hold the spine erect.

You should certainly be under a doctor's supervision. You definitely should have an increased amount of calcium in your diet, at least the equivalent found in one quart of milk a day. If you can't tolerate milk you need to take calcium tablets. Female hormones are helpful in some women at least temporarily. Studies done at the Mayo Clinic suggest that a combination of calcium, fluoride and Vitamin D is helpful in arresting the process in some patients and even reversing to some extent the bone loss.

Those who want more information on this problem can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 6-10, Osteoporosis, Bone Softening. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Texas 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB -- I am writing to ask about the practice of fasting for health reasons, not dietary. Recently I read it was good for the body to fast one day a week. Another article said that a seven- to 10-day fast drinking only fruit and vegetable juices would clear the cells of mucous deposits and make a person feel better and more energetic. Is this a medically proven fact? Please comment on this.

DEAR READER -- You have been reading pure, unadulterated hokum by someone who doesn't have the slightest knowledge of how body cells work. There isn't such a thing as mucous deposits that need to be cleared from the cells.

I don't think very much of fasting. Even a single day of complete fasting can cause weakness and severe headache in many people. Seven to 10 days causes major chemical disturbances in the body, marked fatigue, loss of muscle mass and disturbances in body chemistry. Far from making a person more energetic, it results in their being markedly fatigued. Long term fasting should be in the hospital under medical supervision.

willfully or intentionally injure a trespasser even when the trespasser is engaged in committing a petty crime. In this case, concluded the judge, Lester set up a death trap. And the fact that it was untested and could have killed many innocent people compounded his wrongful act and constituted willful and wanton negligence.

Modernization bill appears to be graveyard bound too

By J.D. KIDD
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY -- There are many ways to kill a bill in the General Assembly.

Voice and roll call votes, either in committee or on the floor, are the most visible methods. But many measures simply fade into the woodwork, assigned to committees that never get around to discussing them.

Others die on House and Senate calendars as the session draws to a close.

House Joint Resolution 61, (modernization), has met a different fate. The undertaker is a subcommittee of the Senate Rules Committee.

After initial hearings and an executive session of the Rules committee, HJR 61 was assigned to its own subcommittee chaired by Sen. Clifford Jones, R-Ladue, with Sens. Paul Bradshaw, R-Springfield, and Al Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, as members.

Spradling won the assignment by default, appointed to the subcommittee because he was absent from rules committee hearings.

The subcommittee was assigned the task of "undertaking an extensive study and review" of modernization, or what amounts to an advance obituary for the measure.

None of the subcommittee members could be described as proponents of modernization, at least in its present form. With only three weeks remaining in the session, referral of modernization to a favorable subcommittee still would be considered its death knell.

Immediately after the rules committee action, resolution sponsor Rep. Joe Holt, D-Fulton, chose not to don his black arm band.

"I'm really not surprised or that disappointed," he said, "There really isn't much left of modernization anyway."

Subcommittee chairman Jones suggested that he might get to the measure, "if I get my income taxes done first." He later amended that statement to: "It's a waste of time. We've got more important things to do in these last few weeks."

If the Jones subcommittee does meet to discuss the resolution, the legislation probably would be rejected by the Senate. Jones' version of modernization is not very popular here.

Jones feels the legislature "moves too quickly." He would prefer a unicameral (one-house) General Assembly with about the same number of members as currently elected to the Senate, 34.

Bradshaw, another subcommittee member, supports a reduction in House membership, a provision that failed miserably in the House earlier this session. He admits that his motion to refer modernization to a subcommittee was simply a move to kill the measure.

"If I was in the House I would fight for reduction," he said. "A legislator needs office space and staff. But I don't think we should tell them what to do. It's their decision."

Clearly, the House decision has been to remain at the current 163-member level.

Bradshaw contends that many people, including Assembly members, do not understand modernization, mislabeling the resolution as "reform."

But just about any form of modernization would be approved in a statewide ballot, he said.

"Reform is a magic word. Everyone is for reform. But I don't think anybody takes time to read the thing," he said.

Bradshaw also opposed pay raises for legislators and, in fact, would favor a reduction.

"It's not necessarily true that a larger salary will attract a better quality of legislator," he said. "All it does is tend to create a professional, and that means someone who is subject to outside influence, for his livelihood."

Spradling, the subcommittee's lone Democrat, said he supports modernization, "but not this bill." He contended that the most effective means of modernizing the legislature would be to reduce the number of committees and increase committee staffing to include full-time professionals.

The combination of Jones, Bradshaw and Spradling is expected to extensively study modernization to death this session.

Why do those solving YOUR problems always come up with the wrong answers?

Hughes may have been ill for sometime prior to his death

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) -- On the day he died, Howard Hughes weighed only about 80 pounds, his hair and beard were long and stringy, and his body was pitted with bedsores, a Mexican doctor who attended him reports.

Hughes was unconscious, dehydrated, had a head infection and was suffering from kidney failure, Dr. Victor Manuel Montemayor Martinez said in a signed declaration given to the Mexican attorney general's office.

The doctor said after examining Hughes he did not expect the billionaire to live more than a few hours.

Hughes was taken from his penthouse at the Acapulco Princess Hotel and flown by private plane to Houston, Tex., on April

HILL FARM FOR SALE

Did you know that hill land near Sikeston has "gone crazy" in value, and in many instances has appreciated at the rate of 50 per cent per year?

For instance actual sales of certain hill land near Avert (12 miles west of Sikeston on AB) have recently brought: $1200.00 per acre; $800.00 per acre; $737.00 per acre; $500.00 per acre and in some cases $450.00 per acre.

Now is your chance to make one of, if not the best investments of your life by buying what is unquestionably the best cattle farm on Crowleys Ridge!

Note these features:

- (1) 420 acres; all pastures sown in permanent cover of fescue and clover and orchard grass.
- (2) Good saleable standing timber.
- (3) Fenced and cross-fenced with five strand barbed wire with steel posts.
- (4) 7 ponds, creek across all of south end (1 1/2 miles).
- (5) Good house, eight rooms, two story with basement.
- (6) Best barn in Stoddard County, approximately 50'x90' cypress on concrete foundation.
- (7) Deep well — running water house & barn.
- (8) New holding pen.
- (9) Beautiful site for approximately 15 acre lake - already surveyed - great recreational development potential.
- (10) Approximately 12 miles west of Sikeston; 4 miles east of Bloomfield.
- (11) Owned eight years by a Sikeston lawyer and has been kept in tip top condition.

Price: $600.00 per acre. Call Sikeston 471-1833; 471-1547 or 471-1060, or write to P.O. Box 1086, Sikeston, Missouri 63801.

Legislators discuss university's budget

By JOHN DOUSSARD
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — Has the University of Missouri cried wolf once too often in the General Assembly?

Each year the University goes before the House and Senate appropriations committees with the same dire story: If M.U. doesn't receive a major increase in its share of state dollars it will face a major setback.

And each year the legislature, often with the aid of a veto-prone governor, gives the University substantially less than it wants without causing the school to come to an educational standstill.

This session has been no different from any other. University President C. Brice Ratchford came to the capital requesting over $19 million more to operate the four campuses he oversees. He said quietly that he would be pleased with a $10 million increase.

Gov. Christopher Bond stunned Ratchford with the announcement he would recommend only a $5.8 million increase for the school's while the legislature was proving more generous with a $7.4 million increase.

All the time the University maintained that without at least a $7.57 million increase it couldn't even stand still and meet inflationary costs in existing programs.

Sen. Clifford Jones of Ladue, the Senate appropriations committee's senior Republican, doesn't feel the University has suffered a loss of credibility in the eyes of the committee when it comes asking for more funds.

"It's part of the game," Jones said. "We have to try and keep the budget balanced and they have to try and get more money out of us. They're no different from anyone else."

Throughout the appropriations debate this session committee members seemed occupied with the pragmatic question of how much to raise the University's appropriation, shunning philosophical questions raised by Ratchford over the possible decline in educational quality.

"I've listened to people for 25 years come to us and say that if they don't get what they want they will have to shut down their operation," Jones said. "We haven't lost anybody yet."

Jones dispelled the notion espoused recently by University officials that a tax increase was the only way to improve the quality of higher education.

"A tax increase won't solve anything," he said. "If we have one we'll be right back where we started in 6 years."

"The solution is for the Coordinating Board on Higher Education to do what it was originally set up to do — coordinate. Until we cut out all this educational duplication we are going to continue to have the same problems. What we should do is make certain programs available only on certain campuses."

Fulton Democrat Joe Holt, a member of the House Appropriations committee, echoed Jones' theory on the appropriations process.

"The University is no worse than anybody else," Holt said. "Everybody asks for more money than they really need to get by."

But Holt agrees a tax increase is a more logical alternative to educational woes than ending duplication in the state's colleges.

"We're spending up to the limit of what we have," he said. "You can't make higher education a whipping boy. The state as a whole needs more money."

"But I don't think the people in Kansas City would want some courses available only in St. Louis or vice versa. One of the real strengths of our state is that we have multiple degrees available in multiple places."

So the yearly debate for more state dollars for the University now becomes a question of what the governor does or doesn't believe the school is telling him. Or perhaps how he believes the game is played.

"All we can do now is hope that everything we've said has had an impact on the governor," Jack Hamilton, communications assistant to Ratchford, said. "We've tried to educate everyone to our situation. Let's hope they were listening."

War reached North Carolina early in the Revolution but from internal strife rather than British forces. Virtually a civil uprising, the Battle of Moore's Creek on Feb. 27, 1776, set the tone for Southern sympathies with North Carolina's delegates to the Continental Congress among the first to urge independence. The World Almanac reveals.

What's Easter without ham?

The always-seasonal, versatile canned ham is a favorite entree at any time of the year... but springtime brings special opportunities for a truly opulent offering.

As the crocuses begin to bud and the jonquils poke tentative heads above the ground, your produce market unpacks and displays a succulent selection of fresh fruits culled from across the nation and around the world. Ripe, juicy strawberries, the melon-like papaya, the slightly spicy mango... these and other tantalize with tempting aroma and luscious looks. They can be easily and elegantly crystallized as a decorative as well as delectable accompaniment to the Agar or Patrick Cudahy canned ham for a flawless, festive feast.

GLAZE AGAR HAM WITH CRYSTALLINE FRUIT

1 (5-or-8 pound) fully cooked canned ham
1 cup fruit nectar (pear, peach, apricot)
½ cup honey
Juice from two oranges
½ tsp. ground allspice

CRYSTALLINE FRUIT

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
2 (15-to-17 ounce) cans of pineapple slices
2 oranges
1½ cups sugar
1½ cups water
12 fresh strawberries with stems

Slash ham across top to form a diamond pattern. Place in a roasting pan. Combine fruit nectar, honey and all-spice; mix well. Pour half of nectar mixture over top of ham. Bake ham at 350 degrees, for one hour and 30 to 40 minutes.

While ham is baking, combine two cups sugar, one cup water and liquid from pineapple in a large saucepan. Bring sugar syrup to a boil; add pineapple and cook over medium heat until edges begin to get translucent, about 10 minutes. Grate peel from oranges in long shreds, or use a zester. Combine orange peel with just enough water to cover it in a saucepan; bring to a boil. Strain orange peel; rinse in cold water. Add orange peel to the pineapple and remove from heat; cover and set aside.

Squeeze juice from oranges; strain and add to nectar mixture. Baste ham with nectar mixture every 20 minutes.

In a small saucepan combine one and a half cups sugar and one and a half cups water. Bring to boiling; cover and boil for three minutes. Remove cover and place candy thermometer in syrup. Boil until temperature reaches 280 degrees.

Meanwhile, prepare a china plate; sprinkle sugar evenly one-fourth inch deep, on plate. When syrup reaches 280 degrees, immediately reduce heat as low as possible. Holding a strawberry by the stem, dip in hot syrup, turning to coat evenly. Set dipped strawberry on pre-prepared sugared plate. Quickly dip remaining berries.

To serve, garnish edges of large platter with candied pineapple. Add miniature palm fronds if desired. Set ham in center of platter. Make small "nests" of candied orange peel around ham. Place strawberries on the orange peel. Serve pan juices from the ham as a sauce; thicken with a small amount of cornstarch if desired.

PATRICK CUDAHY HAM WITH RHUBARB & PINEAPPLE

1 (5-or-8 pound) fully cooked canned ham
3 cups rhubarb pieces
1 (20-ounce) can pineapple chunks
½ cup sugar
¾ tsp. vanilla

Slash ham across the top to make a diamond pattern. In roasting pan, combine rhubarb, pineapple with liquid, sugar and vanilla. Mix well. Spoon fruit mixture to sides of pan. Place ham in pan. Cover top of ham with some of the fruit mixture. Cover pan tightly. Bake at 350 degrees, for one hour and 30 minutes, basting occasionally. Remove cover; take all fruit mixture off top of the ham. Bake, uncovered, for 10 minutes longer. Serve fruit as a sauce for the ham or pass it separately.

EASY HAM CASSEROLE

1 (5-pound) fully cooked canned ham
1 quart home-canned green beans or 2 (15-17 ounce) cans green beans, drained
6 medium potatoes, peeled
1½ cups brewed, black coffee
1-third cup water
1 (½-ounce) package green onion dip mix
2 Tbsp. corn syrup, optional

Place ham in a deep roasting pan. Surround ham with beans and potatoes. Mix together coffee, water and dip mix; pour over ham and vegetables. Cover pan. Bake at 350 degrees, for one hour and 30 minutes. Remove vegetables; place in serving dish and keep warm. Increase oven temperature to 425 degrees. Brush top of ham with corn syrup. Return ham to oven for five minutes.

AGAR HAM ENROBED WITH GINGER APPLESauce

1 (5-or-8 pound) fully cooked canned ham
1½ cups applesauce
2-thirds cups gingersnap cookie crumbs
1 tsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. ground cinnamon

Slash ham across top to make a diamond pattern. Set in a deep roasting pan. In mixing bowl, combine the remaining ingredient. Spoon applesauce mixture over the top of the ham. Bake at 350 degrees F., for one hour and 30 to 40 minutes or until meat thermometer reaches 140 degrees, baste occasionally.

California or bust!

Recipes come highly recommended

By CHERIE BLANTON

Charles was out of town nearly all of last month, so my cooking has been limited to fried chicken, hamburger or pork chops. All of which the fellows eat without any ugly muttering. However, a very good friend sent me a whole bunch of California recipes which I am just dying to try out as they come highly recommended. I am going to go ahead and share these with you for the next two columns as I happen to know she is a very good cook. The first I have tried and is great and something new to put out when people come for cocktails.

CANAPE

1 (16-ounce) jar drained mild gardeniera. (This is a jar of mixed pickled vegetables such as celery, cauliflower, peppers, etc. Around here a lot of people call it end-of-the-garden canning.)

1 (8-ounce) jar ripe pitted olives
1 (8-ounce) sliced mushrooms
1 (7-ounce) tuna fish in water
1 (14-ounce) can of artichoke hearts in water

Slice everything to bite size, mix well and drain. Then add one can tomato sauce, two tablespoons wine vinegar, a half cup Italian dressing and two tablespoons dried parsley.

Put into jars with tight caps. Keeps weeks in the refrigerator. Serve on crackers.

NOODLE AND SPINACH ENTREE

1 (12-ounce) package noodles (cook 20 minutes and drain) ½ cup almonds (To sprinkle on top of casserole)

3 large celery ribs
1 medium onion
1 small can of mushrooms. (Chop all three items and sautee in three tablespoons butter.)

2 packages frozen spinach cooked and drained. (Save one-half cup of the water)

1 cup milk
1 can cream of mushroom soup

1 bouillon cube dissolved in ½ cup spinach water and stirred into milk and soup.

Add rest of ingredients along with one cup coarsely grated cheddar cheese. Sprinkle almonds on top and bake at 400 degrees till brown on top.

This can be made ahead of time and frozen. That completely before putting into oven and if freezing has made it moist, take a spoon and remove some of the moisture. Also, a couple of cans of crab meat can be added just before putting it into the oven. Serves 12 to 16.

PORK THILAMANDE

3 Tbsp. vegetable oil
2 pounds pork tenderloin, cut in two-inch cubes
salt and pepper
1 pint beer
¾ cup boiling water
1 tsp. rosemary
3 medium onions, sliced
1 cube beef bouillon
2 cups cooked sliced potatoes
2 cups cooked sliced carrots
¼ cup flour
¼ cup water

Heat oil in large kettle and brown pork cubes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, add beer and boiling water and rosemary.

Simmer covered for one hour. Add onions, cook 20 minutes more. Stir in bouillon and simmer a couple of minutes. Add potatoes and carrots. Blend flour and cold water and fold into pork mixture. Stir until thickened. Serves 8.

CHINESE FRIED WALNUTS
Heat one and a half quarts water to boiling in large saucepan. Add two 8-ounce cans of California walnut halves. Heat to boiling again and cook one minute.

In large bowl, toss warm walnuts until evenly coated with one-half cup granulated sugar. Heat one-inch of salad oil in skillet to 350 degrees and with slotted spoon add one-half of the walnuts. Fry 5 to 7 minutes until golden, stirring occasionally. Remove, drain and sprinkle with one-eighth teaspoon salt. Toss some and then transfer walnuts to wax paper to cool. Repeat frying with remaining walnuts. Can be stored for one to two months in tightly covered container.
